State, U.S. Grow At Tremendous Rate

Planner Says Wisconsin Can Become World Center With Its Huge Water Resources

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Lake Delton — Wisconsin and the United States are in a growth period superceding any before in history and are undergoing a tremendous technological change, a planner told some 250 business, industry and government leaders here Thursday.

William Nelson, partner in a state planning consultant firm, told the fifth annual governor's conference on resource and industrial development that the state can be a world center because of its immense water resources.

No Problem
While other parts of the U.S. and the world are frantically looking for water, the Great Lakes area — almost alone — has no problem.

"The old disadvantage of our location is no longer true . . . speed of transportation has broken man's historic barrier of time and space, we no longer have to cluster together, we can go anywhere at nearly any speed," declared Nelson.

However, he cautioned, communities must provide structures for people's cultural, educational and other activities. Communities also must clean up the mess of the past, because cities — and not only large ones — are deteriorating rapidly, Nelson said.

Roads Failing
Not only cities, but our road networks are deteriorating faster than they are replaced or rebuilt and "cars are multiplying faster than people, which is quite a trick," the planner commented.

Pointing out that 80 to 90 percent of the nation's roads are in poor condition, Nelson said.

Assassins in Cuba Fail to Kill Guevara

Miami, Fla. — An attempt to assassinate Ernesto (Che) Guevara, a top leader in the Cuban revolutionary regime, failed last night, the Miami News reported today.

Instead, members of an organization called La Cruz (the cross) shot and may have killed Capt. Acosta Cordero, an assistant to Guevara.

Hal Hendrix, Latin America editor of the News, said members of La Cruz told this story:

The assassins, who reportedly have other top revolutionary leaders marked for death, waylaid Guevara's car in Mariano, a residential suburb of Havana.

They riddled it with bullets, hitting Cordero and two other men. Guevara, however, was not in the car as the assassins had hoped. Cordero was taken to a hospital and was reported to have died there.

If War Comes Nikita Vows To Hit Those Countries Having American Forces

Moscow — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, renewing his demand for the United States to clear out of all its overseas military bases, said today that countries playing host to U. S. forces would be the first ones hit if war breaks out.

He made the statement at a Kremlin news conference to give details of a revised version of his "general and complete" disarmament plan unveiled at the United Nations.

Liquidation of U. S. bases abroad has been a major objective of Soviet foreign policy for years.

Khrushchev said his rocket troop commander now has authority to mount a nuclear attack against the bases if new spy plane flights over the Soviet Union take off from them.

New Provision
In addition to reshuffling priorities in his disarmament plan, he included a new provision — destruction of the rockets, submarines, airplanes and other means for delivering nuclear weapons in an attack.

This plan was first advanced by France at the UN a few weeks after Khrushchev spoke there.

"If the cold war becomes hot," Khrushchev said, "the first blow will be struck against those countries which play host to U.S. bases."

Khrushchev was replying to a question from an Izvestia correspondent who asked him to comment on a U.S. state department declaration that America would live up to its commitments to protect its allies.

"It was in no way a wise statement," the premier said. "On the contrary, it was a foolish one since it shows the United States is still clinging to its old policy."

Soviet Premier Insults Ike

Says It's Dangerous 'For Such a Man to Lead Great Nation'

Moscow — Nikita S. Khrushchev, renewing his efforts to discredit President Eisenhower, said today it is dangerous to have such a man heading a great nation.

And he indicated the Soviet Union could have little confidence in Richard M. Nixon as a working partner of the Soviet Union.

The Soviet premier declared the Eisenhower presiden-

Charges Denied

Washington — The White House today branded as "completely untrue" Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's statement that President Eisenhower fears and opposes the unification of Germany.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate press secretary, told reporters the president was informed of Khrushchev's statement on Germany and of the Soviet leader's slurs on the president himself.

There will be no comment, she said, on Khrushchev's statements that Eisenhower is "completely lacking in will power" and that it is "dangerous" for him to head a great nation. But, Mrs. Wheaton went on: "The chairman's (Khrushchev's) reference to German unification is absolutely untrue."

cy is a dark period in history, with the president lacking in will power.

Canadian Leader Visits U.S. Today

Washington — Canada's Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker arrives in Washington today for a 21-hour state visit highlighted by an afternoon of private talks with President Eisenhower.

With U. S.-Canadian relations in good repair these days, the two chiefs were expected to concentrate on common problems facing both countries because of the current international situation.

Eisenhower was reported planning to brief Diefenbaker, as he has other allies, on the summit conference failure and the resulting dimmer prospects for dealing with the reds.

Problems of Aged Distorted, State Medical Man Asserts

Claims Most Americans Over 65 are Happy and Self-Sufficient

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — A distinguished Wisconsin - bred leader of American medicine declared Friday that the problems of the aging in America have been distorted and that the American public has an erroneous conception about the extent of insecurity, disability and social maladjustment of its aging neighbors.

Dr. Gunnar Gunderson, head of a LaCrosse medical clinic and immediate past president of the American Medical association, was the principal speaker at the second day's session of the governor's conference on an Aging Population.

Counter Theme
Dr. Gunderson's thesis ran counter to that expressed by other speakers and themes outlined at numerous panels organized to review the problems of the increasing numbers of elderly citizens and the community's responsibilities toward them.

The majority of Americans over the age of 65 are happy, healthy and economically self-sufficient, he claimed.

There is a "pathological minority," he said, "but we have allowed the problems of this minority group to color our picture of the 16,000,000 older Americans," he went on.

Dr. Gunderson said there is a professional bias among doctors as well as social workers and other professionals.

Arrest Husband In Bombing Which Maimed Women

Nashville, Tenn. — The investigation of an early morning bombing which nearly killed a young mother has led officers to the barricked moonshine whiskey headquarters of her estranged husband.

Mrs. Frances Bunkley Tate, 25, remained in critical condition today after the gift-wrapped bomb blew off her hands yesterday and mangled the faces of two of her three children.

Her one-armed husband, Levo Tate, 33, has been charged with three counts of assault with intent to murder. He has denied the charge.

Officers raided Tate's basement home in a remote section of nearby Lincoln county and discovered 1,485 gallons of moonshine whiskey, 38 cases of beer, a modern still, a pistol, a rifle, several shotguns and a supply of ammunition.

Japan Police, Students Stage Bloody Battle

Leftists Launch New Protests Against Treaty

Tokyo — Bloody battles erupted between rock-throwing radical students and charging, club-swinging police today as Japanese leftists launched a new wave of demonstrations against the U. S.-Japanese security pact and President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

Students once broke into the grounds of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's official residence. They were forced out, then charged three times by several hundred blue-uniformed, helmeted police.

Heads were bloodied and college men and coeds knocked to the street in a wild free-for-all that put the students in retreat.

Some Injured
At least 20 students were cut, bruised and bleeding after the clash. Thirteen were arrested.

No shots were fired and no one appeared seriously hurt.

The wild free-for-all climaxed a 3½-hour demonstration by some 5,000 students around the heavily guarded parliament building. Police threw up specially constructed barricades on trucks at the main gate, effectively discouraging any attempt by the students to force their way into the parliament grounds.

The students carried placards and chanted slogans denouncing the prime minister, Eisenhower's scheduled June 19-22 visit and the partially ratified treaty authorizing U. S. basis in Japan for at least another 10 years.

Russia Promises Welcome for Father of Pilot

Norton, Va. — Oliver Powers has been promised a favorable reception in Russia, where his only son, Francis, is being held as a spy in the U2 plane case.

A telegram from Moscow earlier this week, bearing Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's name, promised to help the Norton shoemaker if he journeys to visit his son.

"I plan to go and want to go as soon as possible — as soon as arrangements can be made — to see my son and to see Mr. Khrushchev," Powers told a newsmen yesterday.

Powers himself could not be located for comment on the telegram. A source close to him said the telegram from Khrushchev was read to the state department in Washington soon after it was received.

Powers was reported to consider the telegram not as an invitation but as an assurance that his visit to Russia would be well received there.

Gov. Williams Backs Kennedy; Rockefeller on Swing Into Midwest

Washington — Sen. John F. Kennedy's endorsement by Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams held the center of the political stage today, but a midwest foray by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York seemed likely to draw the limelight back toward the Republicans.

Williams, who heads a 51-vote convention delegation, announced his support of Kennedy yesterday after a cordial chat with the Massachusetts presidential contender at Mackinac Island.

Williams' action does not bind the Michigan delegation, but seems likely to swing it solidly into Kennedy's corner.

Not counting the 51 Michigan votes, an unofficial Associated Press tally gave Kennedy 334½ committed convention votes, out of the 761 needed for nomination.

The trip — which includes speeches, news conferences, a rally, sidewalk and shopping center campaigning — will inevitably draw considerable attention to the New York governor, whatever its effect on Davis' campaign.

Rockefeller recently declared he's still available if the Republican convention wants to draft him as its presidential candidate. But at the same time he said he doesn't expect it to happen. Vice President Richard M. Nixon is otherwise unopposed for the top spot.

Railmen Win Wage Boost

Arbitration Board Grants 4 Per Cent Hike in Two Steps

Chicago — A 6-man arbitration board today awarded a 4 per cent wage increase in two steps to 40,000 engineers on U. S. railroads.

The carriers lost their bid for a wage cut of 15 cents an hour.

The arbitration award is expected to set a pattern for settling wage disputes with another 760,000 workers in the operation end of the industry. These include firemen, trainmen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen, with whom the railroads have been unable to reach agreement.

Today's decision came nearly two months after the board began hearings to decide the engineers' demand for a wage boost and the carriers' request for a pay cut.

The board awarded a 2 per cent increase effective July 1 and an additional 2 per cent effective March 1, 1961.

Starving Boy Rescued After Ordeal in Bush

Flin Flon, Man. — A helicopter yesterday plucked a starving, nearly incoherent little boy from the burned wreckage of a plane where he had spent 15 lonely, fear-ridden days in the rugged bush of north-west Manitoba.

Walter

Later the helicopter and its rescue crew returned to collect the bodies of the child's father and a friend who died in the crash 390 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

"Gee, I thought you'd never come," said 9-year-old Walter Sedor to his mother at the Flin Flon hospital.

Although suffering from exhaustion and undernourishment, the child was said to be in remarkably good condition despite his ordeal.

The father, Steve Sedor, 39, a friend, Ken Harrison, 32, and the child were on a 12-mile flight to Tartan lake for a fishing trip when the plane crashed May 18.

The boy, sitting in the back seat, apparently was thrown through the roof into heavy brush which broke his fall.

Harrison died in the wreckage of the plane. Sedor was hurled about 100 feet away into the bush.

The boy told his rescuers he chewed a few roots and leaves and drank rain water. A package of supplies containing enough food for one person for at least 25 days had been thrown clear but the boy didn't touch it — apparently unaware of what it contained.

Cold Weather
Since May 18 the weather during the day had been relatively mild, but on several occasions the temperature approached freezing at night. There were several rain days.

Twelve Canadian air force planes and eight civilian craft had searched the area constantly, covering about 70,000 square miles without success.

Yesterday Harvey Evans, a pilot, spotted the boy sitting on a rock about three-fourths of a mile from Tartan lake.

Toomas Ellerbusch, 16, Cries on his mother's shoulder on his arrival at Malton airport, Toronto, from Estonia on Wednesday. He had not seen his parents since he was a baby. The boy was granted an exit visa after his parents wrote a letter to Premier Nikita Khrushchev when he visited Washington last fall.

Broadway Blackout First in 41 Years

No Blazing Lights or Crowds
Thursday Night as Dispute
Of Actors, Producers Continues

New York.—The Broadway negotiations were scheduled to resume today, but the first time in 41 years, a neither side appeared hopeful of a bitter dispute being resolved. A proposal Thursday by the midtown theatrical Mayor Robert F. Wagner for district Thursday night, as a city fact-finding board was the 8:30 p.m. curtain time okayed by Equity, but the came and went, there were league turned it down. no blazing lights on theater. Thrown out of work were marquee, no surging crowds 1,000 actors and 5,000 theatricals honking and jockey hands, musicians and electric to get their fares to the tricians.

Solid Front
Equity presented an all shows until there is an most solid front, from its agreement said producer Alexander H. Cohen, speak- ing for the New York League of Theaters. He added:

Looks Like Long One
"Actors Equity is on strike. It looks like a long one to me."

Equity claims it is a lock-out, not a strike. The union climaxed its pension-wage battle with producers on Wednesday night when it called the cast of "The Tenth Man" to a meeting at union headquarters just before curtain time.

The producers, in line with their warning against "hit-run" tactics by Equity, shut all 22 Broadway shows.

Nikita Raps Administration Of Eisenhower

Premier May Have Handed Republicans
Political Gift

Washington.—A Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may have handed Republicans a political gift by saying the present U.S. government doesn't want to improve relations with Russia.

But some Democrats were quick to challenge his criticism of President Eisenhower and his implication that Russia might be better able to deal with a different government.

Khrushchev said in a letter Democratic leaders made public Thursday that the Eisenhower administration follows a "doctrine of aggression and provocation" which "was not created by the American people."

Not many Americans are likely to agree with Khrushchev's charges of aggression and provocation. Politicians generally believe the voters' instinctive reaction will be to rally behind a president they think is being maligned far beyond anything justified by any mistakes he may have made.

Transfer Feeling

How much this sort of feeling can be transferred to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the expected GOP presidential nominee, remains to be seen.

But Nixon already has taken steps aimed at identifying himself as the man best equipped to stand up to Khrushchev in the international struggle that lies ahead.

This represents something of a quick shift from the Republican pre-summit position that the president — and his heir apparent for the party nomination — were qualified by experience to lead the free world toward some satisfactory accommodation with the Soviet.

Since the summit collapse any course of this kind involves the risk of being labeled as appeasement, an ugly word with which neither party wants to be tabbed.

Democrats such as Sen.

Mrs. Lillian Graffee Screams and starts to slip to the sidewalk in a faint as she stands over the bullet-riddled body of her son, Vincent, 17, in a Brooklyn street early Thursday morning. Her husband, Peter, tries to support her sagging form. Vincent, free on bail on three separate burglary cases, was driven to a spot near his home by two companions, dragged from the car and beaten and stomped as he cried for mercy. Another man jumped from a nearby car and fired three shots into the boy. One of his original companions fired two more shots into his body.

Family Reunion Plans End When Four Drown

Young People Tumble Over Waterfall
Of Swift-Flowing River in Texas Town

Valley Mills, Texas.—Plans for a gay family reunion ended Thursday when four young people playing in the cool waters of the Bosque river on a hot spring day drowned when they tumbled over a waterfall.

They drowned at a YMCA camp about 4 1/2 miles northeast of this small central Texas town.

The victims were Kenneth W. Spoons, 18, his wife, Juanita, 17, his sister, Joyce, all from Waco, Texas, and Luis Spradley, 15, a cousin of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. R. C. Spoons, about 40, of Waco, the mother of two of the victims, watched helplessly ly from a spot 20 feet up a steep trail beside the stream.

The group went to the picturesque site to inspect it as a possible location for a family reunion in August. The camp had not opened for the season.

"They were just wading when one of the children got too near the edge and slipped over the waterfall," Mrs. Spoons told Valley Mills Mayor C. P. Hardwick. "The others kept trying to help, and they went over too."

The swift-flowing river is about 14 inches deep where the youngsters were playing. But the river flows over a 6-foot high waterfall. The swift current has carved a wide and deep pool at the foot of the waterfall and it was in the pool that the youths drowned. Several hours after the accident the bodies were recovered not far from 100 yards down stream.

The bodies were within a few feet of each other.

Spoons was the only one of the four who could swim and he was not considered a good swimmer. The victims were fully clothed.

Kenneth Spradley, 14, a brother of Miss Spradley, grabbed one of the victims but could not hold on.

Also in the party was a younger son of Mrs. R. C. Spoons, and Mrs. Annabelle Spradley, about 55, the mother of one of the victims.

"They were just cutting up and playing," she told officers. The accident occurred on a hot and clear spring day in a peaceful country area covered by big shade trees.

Delegates Pledged to Humphrey Will Have Chance at 2nd Choice

Group Head Invites Contenders
To Caucus at Milwaukee June 26

By The Associated Press
Wisconsin delegates pledged to vote for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) at the national Democratic convention will have an opportunity to decide on a second choice.

Frank L. Nikolay, Abbottsford, chairman of the Humphrey delegation in Wisconsin, said Thursday he had invited spokesmen for all contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination to speak to the Humphrey delegates at a caucus in Milwaukee June 26.

Humphrey won 10 delegate votes at the national Democratic convention in the Wisconsin presidential primary April 5 but later announced he was withdrawing from the race after Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) defeated him in the West Virginia primary.

Kennedy won 20 delegate votes in the Wisconsin primary. Each also has one-half delegate vote from the national committeeman and committeewoman from Wisconsin.

The caucus will be held in connection with the state Democratic convention June 24-26.

Kennedy, leading contender for the Democratic nomination for president, plans a visit to Wisconsin this weekend.

Kennedy said in Chicago Thursday he intended to visit Eau Claire, probably on Sunday, after speaking at a Jefferson-Jackson dinner in Minneapolis Saturday night.

Democrat Philo Nash who became Wisconsin's lieutenant governor in his first bid for public office in 1958, plans to seek reelection.

Nash, a Wisconsin Rapids cranberry grower, is a former Democratic party state chairman. He announced his reelection plans Thursday at Madison.

Knowles Unopposed
Former Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles, a New Richmond attorney who was endorsed by Republicans two weeks ago, is unopposed for the GOP nomination and probably will face Nash in the November election. Nash beat Knowles in 1958.

William H. Evans of Milwaukee, candidate for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, said at a Superior political rally Thursday night that the GOP state platform "showed the party's unchanging intent to resist every progressive change in state government that might entail additional tax expense."

5 to 1 Odds Against Him

Snake Handler Wins Battle for Life After Deadly Reptile Bite

Buena Park, Calif.—Kenneth Earnest is home and anxious to get back to work — the work in which he has been bitten by:

An alligator; a rattlesnake; a cottonmouth moccasin, innumerable non-poisonous snakes, and, almost finally, an Australian tiger snake.

Earnest, 22, is a professional snake handler. He was bitten by the tiger snake May 17, and won a battle for survival which has gone down in medical annals as a rare victory.

Deadlier Than Cobra
Tiger snake victims usually die. The venom is 10 times deadlier than that of the cobra, 70 times deadlier than that of the rattler.

After Earnest was bitten, doctors listed the odds 5 to 1 against survival. The venom cutties remained. It isn't paralyzed his breathing, known yet if he'll suffer any speech and eye muscles. He, permanent after effects. was in an iron lung 10 days. Four days ago he began to "There wasn't much pain," said Earnest, 22. "Not like a self. Thursday, breathing easily, he went home from the terrible localized pain and about drives you out of your mind."

"This time it was like a heavy weight on my chest, like I was going to strangle. Each breath was a difficult procedure."

A team of five doctors worked around the clock at Los Angeles' big general hospital to save him. Before serum was found, the venom caused coagulation of his blood, which had to be constantly changed. He was given five points of replacement blood.

Obtain Serum
Then the serum was obtained at the San Diego zoo. It neutralized the venom, but serious kidney damage, paralytic and respiratory difficulties remained. It isn't permanent after effects.

Four days ago he began to be able to breathe by himself.

Dr. Findlay Russell, neurophysiologist and noted snakebite expert who worked 72 hours straight on Earnest's behalf, said he had received inquiries from the case from Australia and other foreign points.

He said he is preparing a detailed study of the case which could become a standard of treatment procedure.

Was Feeding Snakes
The snake bit Earnest as he was feeding the two tiger snakes at the family's Buena Park snake farm.

"Anyone who gets bitten by a snake in captivity is a darned fool," Earnest said. "That goes for me, too."

He said he was anxious to get back to work, caring for the 3,000 snakes and alligators at the farm.

"It won't happen again," he said.

Nearly 1,000 persons are attending the conference on the University of Wisconsin campus this week, including delegates of more than 50 organizations.

Cost of hospital services is one of the chief grievances of labor organizations, said Wilbur Walters, head of the community services section of the state labor group, speaking for President George Haberman, who was unable to attend.

A labor agent on a hospital board "can report back whether we're being overcharged or not," Walters continued, plainly indicating that there are suspicions about the level of hospital charges.

The proposal came during a spirited discussion by a panel of labor, insurance, medical and management spokesmen about needs in the field of

THESE THINGS CALLED VITAMINS

Vitamins are important chemical body regulators found in various foods. They are needed by the body in only the most minute quantities. A balanced diet usually supplies the needed amounts.

In a general way the following is a list of foods and the vitamins they contain. Green leafy vegetables contain vitamins A, C, G, E, and K; fruits, A and C; meats A, E, G, and E; dairy products A, D, G, and E; unrefined wheat products B and E.

You may be eating a sufficient quantity of vitamins, but not getting full benefit from them. This is the case when the body is unable to utilize those vitamins that are consumed. Be sure through Chiropractic adjustment that your body is functioning properly, so that it can make complete use of the vitamins found in the food you eat.

Holiday Deaths

More than 579 persons lost their lives in accidents over the Memorial Day holiday. How many lives were lost through traffic accidents will not be known until later for delayed reports and additional deaths among the injured will increase the total.

Even as the report stands it is a record for violent deaths attributed to all causes — usually listed as traffic, boating, drowning, and miscellaneous. The old record for holiday observance was 504 set in 1947.

The total of traffic deaths may not set a record this year. There were 371 traffic fatalities during the 3-day holiday in 1958 and the early figures for this year show only 367. Nevertheless the record is not one to be proud of.

The 579 total deaths, the hundreds of persons injured and the tremendous amount of property damage are enough to make every citizen pause as we look ahead to the 78-hour holiday period that will be observed on July 4th.

Wisconsin improved its record in highway fatalities with the loss of eight lives compared with eleven last year. A quick examination of the seven Wisconsin accidents in which the eight persons died indicates strongly that all could have been avoided if drivers had been in the proper frame of mind. Two persons died in 2-car headon collisions. With ordinary precautions on modern highways there should be no such thing as headon collisions. One driver was killed when his sports car missed a curve. Two died in a single car crash. A young girl was killed when her car left the road. A man sleeping in the back seat of a car was killed when the car struck a bridge abutment. A young man died when he was thrown from his car which left the road and rolled over. None of these accidents can be described as preventable by anyone other than the drivers of the cars. People in safety work, which certainly includes the traffic police, may do everything in their power to educate people without results if their advice is to be ignored as apparently it was in these cases.

Much planning and a great deal of money is being expended to make automobiles and highways safe. However, it is doubtful if they ever can be made safe enough to prevent such accidents as headon collisions, leaving the road at a curve or 1-car crashes.

Only the commonest kind of common sense is necessary to prevent such accidents. People who do not have it endanger lives, sometimes their own, sometimes the lives of others.

Appleton and Outagamie county have avoided fatal traffic accidents on holiday periods for 10 years. It is a fine record and one that every person in the county should strive to improve on future holidays and in fact every day in the year. There were accidents in the county, some personal injuries and considerable property damage. The fact that there were accidents means that many people were close to death over the holiday. No one can afford to be careless for a second in a moving automobile.

The Salvation Army Needs Your Help

The Appleton Salvation Army organization has opened its campaign for $125,000 to erect a new building on the present site so that it can continue to serve this community.

The need for a new building is obvious. The one it now occupies was built over 75 years ago; it is dilapidated and inadequate for the needs of this growing community. Careful investigation showed the cost of remodeling would be excessive and would not provide much improvement in the facility.

This is the first Appleton drive for capital funds to help carry on the work of this 80-year-old organization which has been ministering to the needs of the downtrodden here over 50 years.

Purpose of the Salvation Army is to provide for spiritual, moral and physical rehabilitation of all who come for help. No one is turned away because of race, creed, or national origin. The needy, the destitute, victims of tragedy, children, youth, adults, the aged — these are the people the Salvation Army serves.

When the campaign worker comes to your door, be ready to make your pledge and be as generous as your financial circumstances permit.

The Salvation Army people have been quietly carrying on a much needed service in our community for 50 years; this is our chance to do something for them.

Eichmann Is Captured

There can be little sympathy around the world for Adolf Eichmann. The commander of Hitler's mad program to exterminate the Jewish people probably was responsible for the appalling more than six million deaths in the gas chambers or from starvation and abuse.

But Israel is on questionable international legal grounds in the method used to bring Eichmann back to Israel for trial and probable execution.

Like quite a few other top Nazis, Eichmann fled to South America and had taken refuge in Argentina. His sudden appearance last week in an Israel jail came through betrayal by some of his own friends. He was kidnapped in Argentina, kept drugged in seclusion, and then flown to Israel without any extradition proceedings.

Israel authorities argue they have the right to try and condemn war criminals according to their own act of parliament and that international law recognizes that no restraint shall be placed upon the laws of another country. But this is begging the question. What about an Argentina law forbidding kidnapping and statutes which provide for extradition?

Eichmann deserves to die for his crimes if capital punishment is ever justified. But Israel looked no better in the matter than have Communist agents who have kidnapped people in West Berlin and whisked them behind the Iron Curtain. The loss of some international respect and trust seems a big price to pay for the life of one despicable old man.

Safety at the Indianapolis Speedway

The 500-mile automobile race held at the Indianapolis motor speedway every Memorial Day since 1909 attracts people from all over the United States. It is a national event which also holds the interest of millions who cannot attend.

There is danger in such exhibitions and no doubt the fact that the drivers are risking their lives to set speed records is one of its chief attractions. Last Monday, however, the event proved the spectators to be in greater danger than the drivers.

Investigation now is going on to determine who is responsible for the deaths of two spectators when a homemade scaffold collapsed plunging perhaps 130 persons to the ground. The scaffold was erected on a truck in the infield and seats were sold on it to persons who had been unable to get seats in the regular stands. It has been the practice of the speedway management for years to permit individuals to erect such towers. There has been no inspection except to see that "they look safe." Coroner Roy B. Storms declares he has been protesting against the makeshift towers for many years but his protests have gone unnoticed. Now, with two persons dead and about eighty injured, an investigation is underway.

People at this distance have little interest in fixing the blame but if the speedway is to continue to attract people everywhere has an interest in seeing that it is safely operated. The danger of such construction should have been obvious to the track management from the beginning. The public deserves to be protected from such haphazard construction in the future.

Primary Is Expensive Popularity Contest

From The Atlanta Constitution

There were a couple of items in the news recently which are related.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey's campaign headquarters frankly announces it is broke. There is a $10,000 debt left over from the Wisconsin primary. They have a borrowed $2,000 on hand to spend in the West Virginia contest.

The second item comes from former President Truman who again declared that primaries are a lot of eye-wash, expensive, exhausting, and prove nothing.

They also pose a problem for American democracy.

Sen. Jack Kennedy happens to be a wealthy man in his own right with an even wealthier father. His brothers gave him, for example, a $400,000 airplane to use in his campaign. There is nothing wrong with this. But there is something wrong with the primary system.

Sen. Humphrey serves merely as a symbol of any man lacking wealth who might wish to run for office against one who does not. It is easy to see at a time when running for the United States Senate costs from $200,000 to $400,000 depending on the size of the state, that fewer and fewer Americans can afford to run.

West Virginia's primary is really eye-wash — a popularity contest. The results do not even bind the delegates.

Congressman Byrnes Sees No Need For School Construction Funds

From Weekly Report of Congressman John W. Byrnes

Up for debate in the House ... is a federal aid for school construction bill which would send to the states each year for the next three years $325 million from a federal treasury faced with the utmost difficulty in financing a $290 billion debt. No hearings were held on the bill. We have come to the point, in this Democrat-controlled Congress, where even the ritual of taking evidence is abandoned in the haste to shovel out the taxpayers' money.

When one does examine the evidence of the need for this billion-dollar bill, it is, however, understandable why those who rammed it through the committee were not anxious to put the facts on record. Those facts indicate (1) that our states and local governments have financed the largest school construction program in the nation's history during the past eight years, (2) that the backlog of school construction has been largely overcome, and (3) that continuation of school construction at present rates will shortly eliminate the national school deficit.

The U. S. now has about 1,330,000 classrooms. More than half, or 680,000, have been built since World War II, without general federal aid. In the last five years, the annual rate of classroom construction has averaged 66,900. The peak was reached in 1957-58 when the rate was 72,070. The rate has declined since then to 63,000 indicating the nation is over the hump in meeting the war and post-war shortages.

A survey indicates that 132,000 new classrooms are needed to accommodate either excess enrollments or to replace present unsatisfactory facilities. This figure is down 138,000 from 370,000 in 1954. There will always be some backlog, as schools are destroyed by fire, etc., and population shifts create new needs. Local school boards require time to plan and construct new facilities even when financing is no great problem.

Classrooms are also needed annually to take care of increasing enrollments and to replace abandoned schools. Because the enrollment of increase each year is now declining, these needs will be less in the 10 years ahead. Whereas in 1955-59 56,000 new classrooms were required for this purpose, in 1960-64, the number will be down to 53,000 and in 1965-69, to 36,000. Thus, at current construction rates, increasingly heavy inroads can be made in the backlog described above.

In any discussion of school needs, it should be kept in mind that the overwhelmingly vast majority of states and school districts are keeping pace with demands. Wisconsin's backlog in the fall of 1959 was 310 classrooms, but it had 1,650 new rooms scheduled for completion this year. A study made in 1959 by the Office of Education showed only 237 school districts (out of 40,000 in the U. S.) which had both a classroom shortage and a lack of school borrowing authority. Yet, the bill to be taken up in the house makes no recognition of need and pays money to the states solely on the basis of the number of school-age children in the state.

All facts indicate that, if any federal program is justifiable (and that is in question because of the dangers of federal control), it should be confined to areas of dire need. This bill should be defeated because it is wasteful, unrealistic and dangerous.

Looking Backward

Minority Union—Not GOP Men

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of June 2, 1860.

Union Candidates — John Bell was born in Tennessee in 1797. At 20 he was elected to the legislature of his native state; in 1827 he was chosen member of congress, in which capacity he served 14 successive years, serving one term as speaker. He served, in 1841, as secretary of war under Gen. Harrison, and from 1853 to 1859 he served a term in the United States Senate.

In politics he was first a Calhoun admirer, then a Whig, then a Know-Nothing, now a Union man. (Candidate for president.)

Edward Everett (Union candidate for vice president) was born in 1794. At the age of 19 he was settled as the pastor of a church in Boston. From 1819 to 1824 he was professor of Greek at Harvard college; from 1824 to 1834, a member of Congress, then four years Governor of Massachusetts. From 1841 to 1845, he was the United States Minister to London, then three years president of Harvard University. Then he became Secretary of State after the death of Daniel Webster under President Fillmore (1852-1853). State's Tax Returns Game of Bluff, Guess

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Political management of the state treasury has degenerated into a game of bluff and guess, as the recent legislature has shown.

For more than a year the Democratic administration was assailing the Republican state senate for its "obstructionist" failure to pass a hefty new revenue program to bridge the deficit between prospective state revenues and rapidly rising state expenditures. The Republicans declined, saying on the record that they wanted to see the report of the highly touted revenue study commission and its tax revision recommendations before enacting tax laws that probably would become permanent.

Privately some of them also had profound doubts about the validity of the state's revenue estimates. They had eyes to see the continued boom in the business world around them. They also had memories to recall that the tax statisticians had been wrong on the low side so often in the past that it was a good gamble to assume that they would be wrong again.

"SWEEP OUT" Finally, and with as dramatic a flourish as the old capitol has seen in many a year, Gov. Nelson disclosed that the Republicans were right to a considerable degree and that the supposed deficit had been cut down from about $24,000,000 to about $4,000,000 because of unexpectedly good revenue experience.

Through an interesting coincidence, that deficit figured out to the amount that Gov. Nelson's proposed new bank tax bill, upon which he wants to campaign this summer and fall, would have yielded if he could have persuaded the Republican senate to enact it.

Now the Republicans are in the position of saying that if Nelson was wrong by $20,000,000 in his revenue calculations for the first year of his administration, the chances are that he will be wrong by at least $4,000,000 more during the second year of his term. And, in any event, the legislature will be back at the capitol next January, long before the expiration of the fiscal year in July, to make good any problem of a deficit remaining, they argue.

Just before the legislature adjourned a young state senator regaled his colleagues with the story of carrying the improved state treasury report back home to his wife. Telling her that the administration had just found an extra $20,000,000, and that the treasury therefore was only $4,000,000 short, she commented:

"They should be able to find that much just by sweeping out their offices."

THE PROBLEM

All this must be puzzling to the man in the street whose tax payments make up the whole of the treasury's disbursements, balances and deficits, and it is extremely frustrating to the dutiful reporter.

The reporter has been booby-trapped so often by these long-sustained cries of deficit, followed by abrupt upward revisions when the taxpayers actually begin to make their payments, that he is tempted to stand up against such forecasts when they are next made.

He could have been right had he done so during each of the succeeding biennial crises of the last two decades.

But there is also the uneasy realization that one day there will be a reversal. The acceleration of receipts that is a characteristic of the progressive income tax during a period of inflation contains the seed of disaster for the same state treasury in the event of a recession, or deflation. The decline of revenues in such a case would be more swift than the increase during a period of inflation, and more calamitous than the bonanza today is fortuitous.

It is precisely that realization that makes for the consistently cautious appraisals of revenue increases. The officials in charge know that they never would be forgiven if they guessed on the high side, and they ran into a recession.

Asks Clamps on Franking Right Of Congressmen

From The Bangor (Maine) Daily News

So the U. S. house has voted itself and the senate the privilege of flooding voters' mailboxes with "junk" mail. It figures, we suppose; this being an election year.

The solons who sponsored the idea piously argue that it will be cheaper to deliver mail addressed "Occupant" than to deliver franked mail carrying the names and addresses of a congressman's individual constituents. However, as one of the opposing minority pointed out, adoption of congressional "junk" mail would only result in increasing the use of the franking privilege. It would open the doors — or should we say, open the mailboxes — to a fresh flood of mail handled at public expense.

If members of the house really want to save a bit of money for their constituents, we have a suggestion — put stiff restrictions on the much-abused franking privilege.

to its old traditions of not admitting the aggressive nature of its flight over the Soviet Union."

Free Advice
Handing out a little free advice, Khrushchev said the statement issued by the state department's press officer, Lincoln White, "should have said President Eisenhower has already given instructions to stop the (U2) flights and therefore (Soviet defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky's retaliation order would have no reason to come into effect."

He said the American reaction to the Soviet order for destruction of any bases from which spy planes take off is equivalent to the United States' telling its allies:

"Don't be afraid if the Soviet Union destroys you with its rockets, we will come to your funeral."

Malinovsky disclosed Monday that Soviet rocket crews have been ordered to fire at any foreign base from which further spy flights are launched over the Soviet Union.

Nuclear Warheads

Today Khrushchev elaborated on this and said Marshal M. I. Nedelin, commander of Soviet rocket troops, had been given the authority to use nuclear warheads in the rockets.

"The choice of the weapon is within the competence of rocket troop commander Nedelin," Khrushchev said. "He can find one suitable."

Westerners here were shocked by this. In the United States only the president has the authority to launch a nuclear attack.

Discussing a detailed new Soviet disarmament proposal made public last night, Khrushchev said that abolition of all types of carriers of nuclear weapons would constitute a firm guarantee against surprise attacks, "on the prevention of which there has been so much talk in the United States of late."

Khrushchev in effect said that after disarmament was accomplished, the Soviet Union would join in an "open skies" plan of aerial surveillance such as President Eisenhower has recommended.

"We were not so badly off in Dulles' time because he did so many foolish things it made it easier for us... from that point of view I suppose that Nixon is the best choice for us (for U.S. president). Of course it would be better for us if we had a wise partner, but if not, that is the American peoples' business and they will be the ones to suffer."

Khrushchev made these remarks at a news conference, attended by 400 reporters in the Kremlin's domed Sverdlovsk hall.

He got a laugh with this remark:

Best Job

"When the president is no longer president, the best job we could offer him here would be as head of a children's home. We are sure he would not harm children."

"But to have such a man as the head of a great nation is dangerous," he added when the laughter died down.

"President Eisenhower is completely lacking in will power," he said, "but that does not excuse him" for not exercising authority over such men as Nixon and Sec. of State Christian A. Herter.

The Soviet premier declared these two are leading the United States along a path which could bring a new war.

Humphrey added: "When are you going to make a direct move for the nomination? Many people are waiting."

Stevenson has made no overt effort to get the nomination he had twice before, but remains available for a draft.

Another Democratic aspirant, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, said yesterday at Fresno, Calif., that Stevenson is "beginning to act like a candidate" in his recent statements and speeches on foreign affairs.

Two Types of Air Condition Systems Use Gas for Fuel

Two methods of home air conditioning using gas for fuel are on the market today, says the American Gas association, too, and more are being tested under operating conditions.

The best known system works like a gas refrigerator. It is the direct - fired, absorption - cooling system. This uses a gas flame to evaporate a fluid which moves through the unit and absorbs heat from room air. The only moving part is a fan to circulate the cool air.

Another system uses gas to power an engine to drive a reciprocating compressor in a standard refrigerant-condensing system.

Re-Landscape To Add Value To Old Home

Goal Should be To Provide Beauty All Year Around

Twenty-five million older homes need to be re-landscaped to increase their livability and maintain their value in the real estate markets, the American Association of Nurserymen estimates. Re-landscaping can increase the resale value of a home up to 25 per cent, compared to the home whose plantings are so overgrown that they detract from realty values.

Re-landscaping can be made to pay a bonus of a garden living room by transplanting trees and shrubs. Often shrubs can be grouped to provide a background for a new rose or flower garden.

Year 'Round Beauty
Strive for all-year, everlasting beauty in renewed foundation planting. Consult a nurseryman for shadings of foliage color as well as flower color and form. The grays and greens and light blues of foliage offer interesting contrasts.

The purpose of the foundation planting is to frame the house. It cannot do this if it has become so overgrown that it obscures windows and darkens rooms indoors.

Plan the new foundation planting in gentle curves rather than straight, rigid lines. A free, natural - flowing planting undulating around the base of a home, supplies wealth of color and contrast.

Do It Yourself
A nurseryman can tell which shrubs and trees will best be suited to the architecture of a home. You can do re-landscaping yourself by studying other properties and adapting their most desirable points to your own area and uses.

New low - growing shrubs have been developed in recent years that eliminate many problems formerly connected with planting high - growing types.

Building Costs During May Set At $198,900

Kaukauna — Building costs during May amounted to $198,900 of which $135,000 was residential building and $63,900 commercial projects, according to Lothar Kemp, building inspector.

Eight new home permits were issued during the month, total cost of the work set at $124,000. Seven permits for home alterations costing $7,300 were issued and five new garage permits costing a total of $3,700 were granted.

Three permits were issued for commercial alterations and repairs costing an estimated $61,400 and one new commercial building permit was issued, estimated cost set at $2,500.

Kemp issued 47 permits in May including 24 building, eight gas, three gas fitters and four each for sewer, excavating and plumbing. Total permit fees for the month amounted to $128.95.

Paint Preserves Garden Tools

The time is ripe for gardening fans to get their tools ready for planting. It's a good idea to give the handles of the tools a coat of bright enamel. This makes them more attractive, protects them against moisture and sun, and serves as a good means of identification when you have "borrowing" neighbors.

Sharp Heels May Damage Flooring

Attempts to save money by using low-grade flooring materials often end in disaster. The constant pounding of spiked heels on soft surfaces, for example, can cause thousands of small indentations and make a floor almost impossible to keep clean. Ceramic tile, on the other hand, is undaunted and undented by heel pressure.

Building Tip

If screw must be started in a hard-to-get-at location, use tape over the tip of a screw driver to wedge screw tightly onto blade tip. Layers of paper may also be used to accomplish the trick.

Revise Figures on U.S. House Starts

13 Per Cent More Dwellings Put Under Construction Than First Survey Accounts Had Indicated

Washington — The government has issued revised housing figures which disclosed that its 1959 estimate of new dwellings started was roughly 175,000 too low.

The country started construction on 1,553,100 dwellings last year, or 13 per cent more than the 1,378,500 shown by official statistics at the time, the census bureau announced.

Using a new system of compiling housing figures, census said starts in April totaled 117,700. The old count would have shown 110,400.

Last month's starts represent an annual rate of 1,234,000, substantially higher than the march rate of 1,086,000 a year. Under the old statistical system, the April rate would have been 1,135,000 a year.

The bureau said official statistics have been understating actual home building activity in each of the past 10 to 20 years or more.

New Tool Makes Pruning Fast, Clean, Easy

A new tool on the market makes it easier to prune clean, fast and easily. It operates like a rasp and is used to trim branch stubs to the shape of the tree trunk. The 10-inch blade has 500 cutting edges. Holes above each tooth permit wood chips and shavings to pass through without clogging. The setting of the teeth prevent cutting too deep.

The manufacturer says a neat, clean wound will heal to a point where they are hardly discernible. The tool may be used with one hand while hanging onto a ladder. There is a smaller pocket-size model.

Other suggested uses for the tool are to trim branch stubs from cedar posts, rounding sharp edges on wooden lawn furniture and trimming replacement handles for garden tools. Blades are replaceable and come in flat and half-round styles. The standard model sells for $2.69.

A moderate-sized three-bedroom ranch, B-14 offers a total of six rooms with foyer entry and 1½ baths on 1,407 square feet of first floor living area.

occasional reservations, you'll be interested in some simple but rare features. Architect Herbert C. Struppmann has designed into B-14 in the House of the Week series. A three-bedroom ranch with 1½ baths, B-14 was tailored to the results of an informal poll the architect conducted among shipmates during a U.S. Naval Reserve cruise.

One of the items this seagoing architect heard stressed often was a demand for one-level living with privacy. Possibly because most service families have been crowded into cramped quarters so often, most men emphasized the need to sort out the different areas of the house and provide for clear separation between them.

Architect Struppmann took a big step toward this goal by designing a living room that is completely dead-end. It doesn't lead anywhere and need not be entered at all between periods of use.

He also put a set of double doors in the hallway which, when closed, seal off the entire bedroom section from the foyer and entertaining area. Safely out of sight, children can get as rambunctious as they like behind them and not disturb the guests.

B-14 also has a separate dining room, which Struppmann found preferred over the "L-shaped" combination of living and dining rooms. The design has a big house look, but actually is of only moderate size. Habitable area is 1,407 square feet, with 371 additional sq. ft. of garage. It is wide, measuring 71' 6". Depth is 28' 8".

Additional Details
There's a bluestone entry patio which continues right into the foyer. The entry hall is up one step, with an attractive arch opening on the dining room beyond so that the arriving guest can look across the dining table and out the picture window at the back.

The living room utilizes the full depth of the house to the right of the foyer. There is cross ventilation, with a huge four-panel window at the front and a wall of sliding-glass doors at the back. Centered on one wall is an impressive stone fireplace.

Efficient Kitchen
With a door to the center hall and another to the rear vestibule, the kitchen is really in the center of things. Ready access is supplied to the basement stairs and to the main bathroom, via a second door. It's a big, bright room, with work area laid out in an L-shape and a corner dinette or snack bar.

The left side of the house holds three big bedrooms. The master bedroom has the convenience of a private lavatory. Each of the rooms is large enough to sleep two and the front bedroom next to the parents' room could be made into a study-bedroom for a teen-age girl or boy, or be a full scale den when the youngster goes off to school.

Master bedroom has a walk-in closet, just over 5 feet square. Plenty of basement storage area is available, in addition to a large playroom.

V-joint redwood and redwood siding is used effectively for the exterior with contrasting stone veneer and stone planters.

Fruit Trees Give Much Besides Shade, Blossoms

Fruit trees offer two extras that you do not get with other types of trees: spring blossoms and fall fruit.

The smallest lot can accommodate dwarf varieties. They are heavy fruit bearers and often yield fruit earlier.

More shade is the advantage of standard size trees and when there is enough space, are a fine choice. In planting trees that have balled and burlap-covered roots make the hole, set the tree into it untie the burlap, leaving the roots balled. Cover dirt in over the burlap lined hole.

Sound Financing a Must When Doing Home Improvements

Good Idea to Check Entire Family Money Situation Over With Lender

Home modernization and improvements planned for 1960 should be based on sound individual family financial programs, and on consideration of present and anticipated income in relationship to current and anticipated living expenses.

These include such items as mortgage and car payments, taxes and food.
Responsible contractors, material dealers, and lenders have a cooperative interest in helping homeowners in their communities realize their hopes of doing such projects as enlarging kitchens or building more bedrooms for their growing families, because such improvements add to and maintain property values.

However, if accomplishment of such projects involves substantial loans, it will pay to take a well-considered look at the overall family financial situation in view of possible uncertainties that could develop in the immediate future. Family financial well being is of primary importance.

Credit Adequate
The supply of credit available for home modernization and improvements should be adequate to meet all soundly based family programs during the coming year. A homeowner has several sources for loans at his disposal.

An important one is the holder of his mortgage. Some mortgages include "open end" provisions that provide for advances which do not exceed the original amount of the mortgage. In cases where mortgage contracts do not contain such provisions, lenders may suggest some other solution.

One Example
One would be: In cases when a mortgage is well paid down and the proposed improvement would involve a substantial amount, then the mortgage holder may suggest recasting the mortgage instrument entirely.

This process could be expensive. In any event, the homeowner seeking to incorporate his modernization or improvement costs in his mortgage will pay interest on the new funds borrowed, at rates existing at the time the new loan is made.

By far the greatest volume of home modernization and improvement loans is made by banks, either by their own plan or in conjunction with Title I of the Federal Housing Administration.

Bankers realize that the repair and improvement of real property conserves its value, contribute to the development of a sound economy, and make the community a better place to live.

Materialism: Criticized by Church Council

New York—The image of man pictured by much of television, radio and the movies is often "poles apart" from the Christian understanding of man and his purpose, a study commission has reported to the National Council of Churches.

"We speak not merely of the pathological preoccupation with sex and violence" in films and television and "revelations of dishonest practices within the industries," the commission said.

More fundamental, it added, is the assumption "that man's end is material advantage, power and pleasure, to be achieved through competing with, manipulating and exploiting his fellow man."

"We recognize this is symptomatic of a moral disease of our society, reflected in the mass media," the commission said. "And we confess that the churches themselves share in a responsibility for this moral disease."

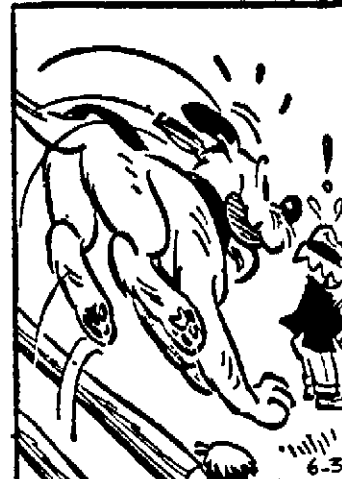

The commission, which made a 2-year study of the church in relation to mass media, reported to the 250-member general board of the National Council of Churches. Thirty-three million Americans belong to the Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations represented in the council.

Wood-Burning Pencil Used To Make These Wall Plaques

BY CAPPY DICK

If you have an electric wood-burning pencil, use it to make wall plaques of sayings by famous men. These will be fine ornaments to hang on the wall of your own room and may be given to grown-ups as gifts.

For best results, choose soft wood that has little grain. Sandpaper it to make it very smooth. Select the famous saying you want to burn into the wood. It may be part of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. A quotation from Washington's Farewell address would also be good to use. Or you may use any famous proverb. In Figure 2 of the drawing above a remark made by Abraham Lincoln is used to illustrate the possibilities.

Carefully print the words with pencil on the sanded surface of the wood. Make the letters big so you can easily burn them into the wood with enough to cause it to soak the point of the wood-burning into the wood, giving a nice pencil as the boy is doing in finish.

When the colors have blended this way, use your electric pencil to burn letter after letter into the wood, burning of color. Use your wax crayons deep enough to engrave the words. First apply some streaks of red crayon. Then apply streaks of blue, yellow and green. Cover the whole surface with small streaks into the back of it near the top and attach a cord.

Need Awareness of Regional Problems, Says P-C Editor

Cities in Fox River Valley Are Literally Growing Together

Lake Delton — "We in the river, knit the cities together. Fox river valley are nearing in a community, but there still — or perhaps are at — a point where we need an awareness of regional problems. Our cities are literally growing together," V. I. Minahan, editor and executive vice president of the Post-Crescent, declared Thursday.

Minahan moderated a seminar on regional planning and economic development during governor's conference on resource and industrial development. It's not at all certain, Minahan pointed out, just what the Fox river valley is. Some descriptions include the lakeshore cities of Manitowoc, Two Rivers and Sheboygan and extend as far north as Marinette. Ordinarily, the valley is regarded as the Fox river and Lake Winnebago from Green Bay to Fond du Lac, he added. The highways, as well as the commission in 1956, joined

Tourists Pay $440 Million Into State

Half of Them are Wisconsin Residents, UW Survey Indicates

Lake Delton — The tourist industry brings an estimated $440 million annually into private business and municipalities and about half of it is from state residents, UW Professor Isadore Fine said Thursday at the governor's conference on resource and industrial development.

With the rising trend in leisure time and income, the vacation and recreation industry presents one of the greatest opportunities for growth, he told some 250 business, industry and government leaders at the planning-centered meeting.

Almost every state community can do something to attract visitors in this recreation and vacation industry, while many communities cannot attract industry in the usual factory production sense. Fine said. He pointed out that 80,000 children attended summer camps of all types and this produced some $64 million in revenue. And, he added, it was revenue not to resort operators, but to businessmen in the communities near the camps.

55,000 Cottages A surprising statistic which turned up in Fine's study of the tourist industry for the state legislature was that there are some 55,000 private cottages in the state, two-thirds of them owned by Wisconsin residents, he commented. Among other things, the cottages meant $6 million in property taxes paid governmental units last year. He estimated revenue from cottage living at some $75 million last year.

Campers—who spent about $3 million in the state last year—are not taking a poor man's vacation and seem to come from the upper income level, the professor of commerce noted. Camping vacations are taken by people who are outdoors-minded and who want their children along, he commented.

Not Enough Space However, there simply is not enough space for campers and facilities are vastly overcrowded, he added. In the Wisconsin Dells area, which adjoins Lake Delton, Fine pointed out that private enterprise had provided camping space. He offered this as one solution to the space problem, because the conservation department does not have the money to provide more space.

Necessary action to encourage the recreation and vacation industry growth should include lifting the prohibition against advertising within the state, expanded facilities and a more efficient use of facilities. Fine commented that "we are at or very near the point where perhaps we should say 'this is a fishing lake, this is a cottage lake, this is a boating lake,' because there tends to be interference between the activities. Many of the complaints received on questionnaires used in the survey mentioned this difficulty, Fine said.

State, U.S. Grow at Tremendous Rate

Continued from page 1 Economic base, its ecological base, or the relation of the parts to the whole. A realistic appraisal of the community's future potential can be made from this information and the next step is the coordination and integration of the community into the larger area in which it is located.

The population increase has led to a sprawling growth around the periphery of cities, Nelson pointed out.

Shutting Off He commented that "many of us drive our fistful of money to our suburban homes and turn on our television, thus shutting ourselves off from our communities. We must face up to the fact that we need a community consciousness, that we are a part of our community."

Nelson said that the community resource inventory must be followed by an evaluation of the community's economic base, its ecological base, or the relation of the parts to the whole. A realistic appraisal of the community's future potential can be made from this information and the next step is the coordination and integration of the community into the larger area in which it is located.

Business has become very sophisticated about where it locates, he commented, and looks for a stable community where people want to live. Locations are a matter of economic and social conditions, he added. What industry looks for is the economic balance and stability of a community, conditions which should be in the community before the industry moves in, not after, he explained.

Wisconsin has a chance to show its economic heels to the rest of the United States if it gets to work on coordinating resource planning, UW Professor Jacob Beuscher told the conference. Almost no states are engaged in this sort of planning, he added.

Ignore Lines State level planning has come about because problems tend to ignore the artificial political subdivisions within the state and the solution or consideration of such problems falls naturally to the state government, he explained.

Facts — natural resources and human resources — must be collected, intelligently analyzed and proposals made for dealing with foreseeable needs and problems, Beuscher said.

State planning does not replace local planning, he emphasized.

shortly thereafter by Grand Chute, Wood explained. Eleven reports, one of which has been made, will come from the planning firm hired to complete a regional development plan, culminating in an overall plan in late 1962, Wood said. The cost of the plan is spread among the 10 municipalities according to the annual equalized valuation released by the state.

The commission will hire a director and staff to administer the plan and keep it up to date after the development outline is presented, Wood commented.

Gateway to Valley Green Bay is the gateway to the Fox river valley and valley cities ought to know that Green Bay is planning for the future, Mayor Roman P. Denissen declared. He pointed out that the city has a 10-year capital improvements plan, designed to stabilize the tax rate by scheduling bond issues, and has hired a consultant to work out the plan. The city has been given the Gregory plan, prepared by Victor Gruen and Associates for 100 Green Bay businessmen who contributed $40,000 for it.

The plan is in the hands of Green Bay's full time city planner for analysis, he added.

Manitowoc, Too Green Bay also is building a $100,000 road to connect main highways with its St. Lawrence Seaway transportation and service area, some 1,400 undeveloped acres on the city's north side, Denissen explained.

Manitowoc does have some common interests with the Fox river cities, commented Mead Hanson, of the Manitowoc Chamber of Commerce. The city considers itself a shipping point for Great Lakes traffic and is the car ferry shipping point for the area. There is a relationship on an east-west basis as well as the north-south link along the river, he added.

Seek Best Plan for Off-Street Parking

YMCA Property Discussed As Possible Site for Ramp

The question is whether to buy more off-street parking lots or to further develop existing lots by building ramps on some of them.

This was the consensus at a chamber of commerce traffic committee meeting Thursday, attended by several downtown merchants, Mayor Clarence Mitchell, Director of Public Works Edwin Duszynski and Alds. R. P. Groh, William Ertl, Kenneth Priebe and Alvin Tews. No decision was reached.

YMCA Property

Mayor Mitchell informed the group his plan to establish a parking authority would be presented to the board of public works on June 14. It would take 45 to 60 days for council approval and passage of the appropriate ordinance, he said.

City officials were queried on whether they thought the city would be interested in buying the present YMCA property when the Y builds its new building.

Chamber members were told that if they could gather and correlate concrete data on availability of the site, cost of the land, cost of development into a lot or ramp and the value of such a facility the purchase would be more thoroughly studied.

Sketch Drawn

It was noted that many times ramps are operated at a loss. Some existing lots are suitable for ramping, particularly the one at Division and Washington streets, it was said.

Architect Raymond N. LeVee drew a sketch for a 2-level ramp at Division and Washington earlier this year. It would accommodate 241 cars and cost $280,000.

Ald. Groh favored using existing lots and reiterated his stand against using Jones park for a parking ramp.

William H. Pifer, vice president of H. C. Prange company, said if good parking is provided Appleton can become the retail trade center of northeastern Wisconsin, and referred to a Post-Crescent editorial which quoted Green Bay business leaders as saying they are in direct competition with Appleton.

Need Ramps Now

W. D. Kaulum, partner in the Campbell stores, said, "The time is here now to begin ramping."

Pifer said he agreed and

Tipsy Drivers Plead Guilty

Milwaukeean Fined Additional $50 for Not Having License

Two men have been fined after pleading guilty to drunken driving charges.

Thomas B. LeSieur, 38 Milwaukee, today in Municipal court was fined $100 for drunken driving and $50 for driving after his driver's license had been revoked.

Howard J. Carroll, 38, Milwaukee, was fined $20 for letting LeSieur drive his car. LeSieur was arrested at 10:10 p.m. Thursday on Highway 45 about 2 1/2 miles west of Highway 76 when state police saw him driving erratically. LeSieur tested .24 on the drunkometer.

LeSieur and Carroll were jailed when they could not pay their fines.

Harold O. Seidler, 51, Ripon, changed his plea to guilty of drunken driving and was fined $100 by Herbert J. Mueller, acting municipal court judge at Oshkosh.

Seidler was arrested May 24 at Highway 116 and County in Green Bay and moved to Chilton in 1902. He owned the Thompson Machine and Welding shop since 1922.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Sunday at Pfeffer Funeral home, Chilton, with the Rev. Quentin Moeschberger, of Ebenezer Evangelical and Reformed church, Chilton, in charge. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Saturday. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery, Chilton.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Jean Stubbe, Chilton; son, Police Sgt. Harry Thompson, Chilton; and one sister, Miss Nellie Thompson, Milwaukee.

State Justice To Step Down At End of Term

Madison — Chief Justice John E. Martin has decided not to seek reelection next April, leaving Justice Grover L. Broadfoot in line as the next chief of the state supreme court.

Martin said Wednesday he will step down when his term expires in January, 1962. He will reach the mandatory retirement age of 70 on Nov. 15, 1961.

Broadfoot, 67, will succeed him on the basis of seniority.

Public service as mayor of Mondovi, a state assemblyman and state attorney general is incorporated in Broadfoot's career.

During his University of Wisconsin law school days, he worked as a reporter on the old Madison Democrat. His assignment called for taking Associated Press wire news by telephone when the AP still operated its so-called "pony wire" to member newspapers.

Man, 57, Dies In Auto Crash

Vincent W. Malloy, Green Bay, Victim; Son Was Driver

Green Bay — A high-speed highway crackup west of Green Bay late Thursday afternoon left one man dead and the drivers of the two cars involved still in very critical condition today at St. Vincent hospital.

Dead from a broken neck and other injuries when reached in the twisted steel wreckage was Vincent W. Malloy, 57, Green Bay.

Apparently most seriously injured of the two survivors is Clifford A. Osen, Jr., 45, De Pere, who was alone in a car which collided head-on with the second auto driven by the dead man's 18-year-old son, Patrick. The youth also was seriously injured in the 5:30 p.m. crash.

Malloy's death raised the 1960 Wisconsin highway traffic toll to 283, compared with 269 on this day a year ago.

Evidence at the scene of the smashup on Highway 29-32 about a mile west of Burdons hill showed that the Malloy car, which was pulling a rental 2-wheel trailer, skidded for some distance and swerved slightly to the right as it avoided the oncoming vehicle.

The apparent point of impact, county officers noted, was almost near the edge of the pavement on a straight and level stretch of the highway. Both vehicles were jammed together with the Malloy car, unhitched from its trailer by the blow, pinned against a steel guard rail at the edge of the 10 foot shoulder of the roadway.

Malloy was born in Manawa and was a graduate of Manawa high school and telegraphers' school at Valparaiso university, Valparaiso, Ind. For the last 33 years he had been a telegrapher for the Chicago and North Western railroad.

Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. Joseph Catholic church, Green Bay. Friends may call at the Coad Funeral home, Green Bay, Thursday after 6 p.m. today. Burial will be in Port Howard cemetery.

Malloy is survived by his widow; one son, Patrick, at home; one brother, Martin, Clintonville; and four sisters, Mrs. Martin Gosz and Mrs. Howard Batley, both of Menasha; Mrs. Guy Holtz, Manawa; and Mrs. Nell Blessmen, Menlo Park, Calif.

Assessor Pierre Writes Article in Professional Book

City Assessor John A. Pierre is author of an article on the legality of assessing imported raw material once it is stored in the manufacturer's warehouse, published in the 1959 Assessment Administration, official publication of International Association of Assessing Officers.

He cites the case of United States Plywood corporation versus the city of Algoma. The court ruled that when the material was stored in the warehouse for day to day needs it had lost its character as an import, and the city could levy a tax assessment.

Pierre also cited the case of Madison Newspapers, incorporated, versus the city of Madison, brought after the city tried to assess all imported newsprint on the newspaper premises. The court ruled the city could assess newsprint needed for one day's run in the press room.

But, Pierre writes, the decision in the Algoma case would seem to make it possible to assess all newsprint stored on all the premises.

Harvey Dunsirn, Pastyme Owner, Succumbs at 44

Harvey A. Dunsirn, 44, of 2306 S. Oneida street, owner and operator of the Pastyme club for the last 16 years, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home at 9:25 p.m. Thursday. He was rushed to St. Elizabeth hospital by Lindy's ambulance but was pronounced dead on arrival.

His father, Andrew J. Dunsirn, 3546 E. Wisconsin road, died eight days earlier.

Harvey Dunsirn was born July 25, 1915, in Appleton where he lived all his life.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at Sacred Heart Catholic church, with burial in St. Joseph cemetery. Friends may call after 2 p.m. Sunday at Wichmann Funeral home, where the rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Surviving are the widow; four daughters, Mrs. Harvey Stoeger and Mrs. Robert Verpoort, both of Appleton, and Misses Sandra and Pamela Dunsirn, both at home; five only the newsprint needed for one day's run in the press room.

But, Pierre writes, the decision in the Algoma case would seem to make it possible to assess all newsprint stored on all the premises.

Planner Gives Reports on Job Progress

Reports on completed projects and planning now in progress were given by Kenneth L. Schellie, regional planner, to the Fox Valley Regional planning commission Thursday night.

A history of the Fox Cities has been completed, he said. A land use survey and utility system survey are underway. The land use survey will include all areas outside Appleton, Neenah and Menasha and for a distance of 1,000 feet just inside their boundaries. The centers of the three cities will not be surveyed because land uses in these areas are well established and not likely to change, Schellie said. The entire area of other Fox Cities municipalities will be mapped.

A motion by Commission Chairman Charles Wood, Kimberly, to have the commission meet twice annually instead of every three months, was defeated. Wood said the executive committee had been given more power, and the only other reasons a full commission needed to meet was to approve the annual budget and elect officers.

Laurel Heaney, town of Neenah, and Appleton's Mayor Clarence Mitchell both agreed meetings should remain on a 4-a-year basis, if only for informative purposes.

Paul Lovering, Phone Engineer, Collapses, Dies

Paul W. Lovering, 59, of 532 N. Sampson street, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at 8 a.m. today.

He was born in Manvin, Ohio, Nov. 24, 1900, and lived in Appleton the last 13 years.

Brettschneider Funeral home is making arrangements.

Surviving are the widow; one daughter, Mrs. Leo N. Watry, Port Washington; one son, Paul T. Lovering, South Milwaukee; one brother, Gerald, Ashland, Ohio, and seven grandchildren.

Big Blue-Robed Class Gets Diplomas at AHS Ceremony

Speaker Wishes Graduates Long Lives of Hard Work, Not Luck

BY BONNIE BARSTOW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

(Pictures on Pages A-3 and B-16.)

From the 10-minute procession of two long lines of blue-robed seniors to the rousing "U. Rah, Rahr, 60" that ended Appleton High school's commencement program Thursday night, a full auditorium of parents and friends were impressed that this class is big.

The stately strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," played by Thomas Krueger at the organ, were repeated many times as 508 seniors took their places first on bleachers on the back of the stage, then on chairs.

At the front of the stage, then on chairs on a special platform built out over the orchestra pit to accommodate their numbers.

"I don't wish them any luck," said Dr. Glen Eye, University of Wisconsin professor of education, the guest speaker. Instead, he wished them a long, long lifetime of hard work, a good portion of which will be work of the mind.

Fortunate Class
Eye said that perhaps the class of 1960 is fortunate, for today's intellect is respected more than it was in the time of the 1830s early 1950's.

In the '30s, when such terms as "brain trust" and "egg-head" became popular, "we taught people to scoff" at intellect, Eye said. In the "fearful fifties," he said, people reacted emotionally to the threats of Russia and turned against the schools.

"It's up to us," he told the adults in his audience, to provide an atmosphere of respect for people who use their minds.

Students Speak
Alfred Bradford, first of six student speakers, reminded the audience that his class was a product of World War II. War is "a tragic thing," he said, but it did compress research and development into a short period of time, and the eyes of many people the government is a self-contained, money-grabbing giant," when they should feel they are a part of the government. Government alone can afford to back research, he said, and it must regulate the businesses in which it invests. As a result, it grows away from the people, he said.

Security has been obtained in some cases at the cost of initiative, Klueess said. Security has become the symbol of success, he said, but culture is the true measure of greatness. More and greater art and writing can become a basis for new American pride, he said.

He urged his classmates to look at the world as realists. They have a choice of retaining the world as it is or seeking a new future of their own creation.

No Bleak Future
"We do not accept this bleak picture as our future," Susan Ward said of the somber predictions of others. The class has been given tools; the next step is to apply them, she said.

One major key to success, she said, is appreciation, which means understanding, respect and gratitude as well as enjoyment and admiration.

She urged the class to appreciate art, creativeness, and work in cultural, scientific, moral and economic fields, and to respect every man and his accomplishments.

A selfish attitude is both foolish and disastrous, said Mary Capitaine, who pointed out the tolerance, charity and brotherly love the class members had learned from teachers, family, church and other students.

Courage, Faith
They have learned the importance of being able to follow as well as to lead, Miss Capitaine said. Their future will be to have courage to do right and faith in themselves, their neighbors and in God, she concluded.

Music on the program included H. Wieniawski's "Legende," a melodious violin solo by Sharon Bauerlein;

Nelson Favors Two Bills to Liberalize Aids

Madison—Gov. Gaylord Nelson has endorsed two congressional proposals designed to liberalize social security benefits.

The chief executive told the Governor's Conference on an Aging Population Thursday that he favors changes that would provide for medical benefits for retired persons and would raise the $1,200 earning level allowed before benefits are cut.

Nelson said that "money and health are the greatest immediate problems" facing the state's 395,000 persons over 65. He added that the state's proportion of residents in that age bracket is 10 per cent above the national average.

Bills providing for such increased benefits are in the hands of congressional committees.

Old Hit Musicals Now Being Revived

New York—With the successes of the recent revivals of "Finian's Rainbow" and "The King and I," Broadway managers are digging among song and dance hits of the past 10 years on Broadway to uncover other box-office nuggets which faded too quickly.

Among the recent hit musicals which are being polished up to be presented again soon are "Girl Crazy," "Knights of Song," and "The Red Mill."

Romberg's "Desert Song," a vocal duet by Jean Ashman and John Edwards, and C. von Weber's "Concertino," a clarinet solo by Dennis Churchell. The Rev. John Seidler, of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church, offered the invocation and benediction.

Reads Names
Principal Herbert H. Hel-

ble read the graduates' names aloud as Edward V. Krueger, president of the board of education, handed them the diplomas and certificates which were arranged in alphabetical order in 12 long boxes.

"We shall miss this class," Helble said, but pointed out that next year's graduates will number 200 more than the class of 1960.

Wichmann, Miller Homes Reflect Good Taste in Design, Architecture

The English country home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Wichmann, 236 River drive, was built 20 years ago in Tudor style. Authenticity and careful detail of the period can be seen in its leaded windows and hand polished oak parquet floors. A spacious green lawn surrounds the house and is terraced in the back. Right, a cherry and bright note is reflected in the yellow kitchen, overlooking the ravine. Plenty of cupboard space and room is featured in the convenient kitchen.

The Recreation Room on the lower level is furnished with the Miller's collection of Monkey Pod furniture from Hawaii. Two myna birds reside in their cages in the comfortable room which overlooks the Fox river. The contemporary home was built five years ago and harmonizes individualism with fine simplicity of detail. Right, the living room also overlooks the river and is furnished in a blend of periods and ages reflecting the interests and travels of the owners.

Exquisite Oriental Rugs are found in the living room as well as throughout the Wichmann house. The room's pale background oriental sets off the black marble fireplace and marble table with rich distinction. Large thermopane windows are featured on two sides of the room. The blonde cherry French Provincial - furnished dining room will have a table set for a formal dinner for home tourists to view. The "Homes in Review" tour will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 9. It is being sponsored by the Charity and Genevieve Paulson circles of The King's Daughters.

The Tiled Swimming pool of the N. C. Millers, county trunk BB, is kept at a comfortable temperature year around. It may be reached either from the outside through sliding glass doors or by passing through the downstairs recreation room.

Your Problems

Readers Disagree With Ann's Reasoning on Child's Money

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: A blizzard of complaining letters is blowing in from all over the country. Many readers disagree with the advice I gave the mother whose 16-year-old daughter receives $40 a month from her deceased father's estate.

The mother has remarried and has four other children. She stated the stepfather is having a hard time making ends meet. She doesn't know if it's right to use the girl's $40 a month for necessities for the entire family.

I reminded the mother that the money was not left to the family — it was left to the daughter — and I suggested it be put away for the girl's college education.

My advice still stands. However, here are some dissenting views from readers who have presented well-reasoned arguments against my position. They deserve to be heard. — Ann Landers should use that money to support the girl. After all, that's what it was left for, isn't it? The mother said they were having a hard time financially. Although $40 a month is a drop in the bucket toward total support of a 16-year-old, it would help some. — Richmond, Va.

DEAR ANN: You are wrong. If the stepfather wanted the $40 a month to pay for a third Cadillac, I'd say no — but it was stated clearly that the money would come in handy as there are four other children.

Why should the four kids have to share what they have with this step-sister, while she gets to put away her $40 a month for a college education? — Little Rock, Ark.

DEAR ANN: If you're going to get so ding-blamed technical about the $40 a month inheritance, I say the girl should then buy her own clothes, do her own laundry and pay her step-dad a quarter for every load of washing she does in his machine.

She should also pay him for room and board, electricity and heat. If he drives her to school she should pay him the same amount as she'd pay a bus-driver. How commercial can you get? — Hutchinson, Kan.

DEAR ANN: The step-father doesn't owe this girl anything. He married her mother. I think it's stupid of the mother to make an issue of the $40 inheritance. She should fork it right over to the old man. If you'd let the average 16-year-old girl today decide what to do with $40 a month she'd buy bobby-pins, records, popcorn and eyebrow pencil with it. — Pittsburgh

DEAR ANN: I'm in exactly the same spot as the mother who wrote to you — only my daughter is 14. This girl gets the same privileges of the home and enjoys the comforts provided for her the same as the rest of the children. She doesn't get any less than her step-sisters nor does she get any more. The $40 left to her is used to help run the house. And let me tell you, it doesn't go very far. — Port Huron, Mich.

DEAR ANN: What difference does it make whose money it is legally? The girl has a moral obligation to share her $40 with the rest of the family. Period.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Some Pupils Need Special Assistance

BY ANGELO PATRI
 Freddy is 10 and in the second half of the third grade in school. He reads well enough but his arithmetic is less than poor.

Needle Work

It is time for promotions. As term end nears Freddy's parents and teachers are worrying about his disposition. To promote or not to promote? The teacher thinks, "If I keep him back he will be discouraged. If I send him ahead the next teacher will complain and justly so. If I don't send him ahead his parents are going to complain loudly although they have not taken the slightest interest in my reports concerning him."

The principal looks over the teacher's lists. "In his condition of blankness as to numbers it seems useless to hold him back. I'd say send him ahead and give him his arithmetic with the beginning class. He won't like it, but—"

Seek Help
 Now go to work on the difficulty. Consult the psychologists in the clinic of the nearest university, or the available expert, to learn just what is the difficulty. Then follow the methods outlined by him.

To do this, someone apart from the regular staff of the school must take over, maybe the head of the school himself, or the head of the department. Anyway, some experienced able teacher freed of schedule for the service of retarded or backward children. Every school, large or small, needs such service. Leaving him behind is not the answer.

SEAMS TO ME

By Patricia Scott

Have you ever noticed a jacket or coat on someone and wondered why it looked so flimsy?

Well, it probably wasn't lined. To hold their shape and to mold to the body properly, most jackets and coats should be lined, be they of silk, tulle or wool tweed. This goes for loose, as well as for fitted garments.

Putting in a lining is not a big project. After doing it once you'll find it quite easy.

If the jacket (or coat) has been altered, be sure to make the same alterations in the lining. Coat and jacket linings are put in the same way and differ only in the finishing of the hem.

Stitch darts; stitch all seams except shoulders. Also stitch sleeve seams. Press seams open and press lining thoroughly.

Place garment wrong-side out; slip lining over it so that wrong sides are together, seams matching (A). Pin down center back. Pin and catch underarm seams together from inside, leaving three inches free below armhole and above hem. Now baste lining to garment at armhole, starting at underarm seam working to shoulder, first on the front and then on the back, leaving a few inches of back free. Turn under the back edge of shoulder seam, and pin it over from edge. Hem in place. Sew lining to garment by basting the seam allowances together. At center back seam of lining, fold in a pleat to remove excess fullness. Hold pleat in place at neck and waistline with a bar tack. Now turn under seam allowance on front edges and around neck. Pin and hem in place. To finish lower edge, baste lining to garment about 5 inches above lower edge of jacket. Turn under seam allowance at lower edge and pin over raw edge of hem. The extra length you will have in the lining will form a fold at lower edge to give ease and prevent drawing. Slip stitch edge of lining in place. Remove basting.

Sleeve (B): Match front notch of sleeve and garment. Scott asks readers to please limit their letters to one question — side out. Baste together beginning two inches of below armhole and ending this newspaper, enclosing a three inches above lower edge. Slip hand inside lining and turn over the sleeve. Turn under seam allowance at top of sleeve and pin over armhole seams, easing fullness between notches. If lining pulls at shoulder, clip at curve. Hem in place. Turn lower edge of sleeve lining same as lower edge of jacket. Press.

Coat lining hem: Turn hem over interlining or if not interlined, turn regular hem, and hem in place. Leave lining free of outer garment at bottom edge. Use French tacks to attach lining to coat at side seams.

Miss Scott is happy to help readers with sewing problems, and with questions on wardrobe and fashions. However, because so many are seeking her assistance, Miss Scott asks readers to please limit their letters to one question — side out. Baste together beginning two inches of below armhole and ending this newspaper, enclosing a three inches above lower edge. Slip hand inside lining and turn over the sleeve. Turn

In Good Taste Prefers to Give Time To Parents

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My parents live several hundred miles from me, and I get home on the average of twice a year for a short visit. Whenever I go home my relatives expect me to call them or go to see them. Since I have many relatives this would be an impossible task and I like to spend my time at leisure with my parents. Is it not as much their place to call on me since they know in advance that I will be in town, as it is for me to go to see them? The reason I ask is because every time I go home and I fail to go to see these relatives, they seem very hurt and never fail to tell my parents how ill-mannered I am.

Answer: Those of your relatives who are of your age or younger should not expect you to call on them, but you should go to see those that are of your parents generation.

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please answer the following question for me: If a group of people give me a nice present, should I write only one thank-you note to the group, or should I send each individual a thank-you note?

Answer: It is nicer to thank each individual if possible, but if the group is too large for this, one letter thanking the whole group may be sent to the one who most probably led the others into sending the presents.

Nice Courtesy

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper to take a box of candy to one's hostess when invited to her house for dinner? I have always followed this practice but was told recently that it is not done by people of best taste and makes the hostess feel that it is payment for the meal.

Answer: This is more popularly done in some communities than in others, but it is certainly not in bad taste. I can't imagine that any hostess would be critical of this courtesy.

A Lovelier You

Pastel Leathers

Among summer accessories, pastel leather shoes merit attention. Made in superior shades and shapes, they can be used as the focal point of a costume, rather than as a mere supplement.

What's more, new finishes render most pastel shoe leathers washable, a feature that adds practicality to fashion value. Just the swish of a slightly damp, soapy cloth removes ordinary stains from grainy, smooth and lustered leathers, however delicate the color. The exceptions here are tar and heavy grease, both of which should be pre-spotted with cleaning fluid.

If you like a matte finish, all you need do is remove the stains. But if you prefer a high gloss, wait for the shoe to air-dry and then apply a coat of neutral cream or liquid polish and buff with a cloth.

Pastel suedes call for a little more care. First brush the shoe to remove dust, and then raise bruised nap with an emery board. Next treat spots with a dry-cleaning fluid, or with a spray-on cleaner made for the purpose. After it is dry, brush the shoe again.

That's all there is to the upkeep on pastel leather shoes. So kicking up your heels in a pair could not prove impractical. Only detectable!

If your individual problem is heavy legs, send for my new leaflet, "Legline Trimmers," which contains spot-reducing exercises that will meet your individual needs, whether for thighs, knees, calves or ankles, or for contouring your entire legline.

Write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and five cents in coin to cover handling.

Age of Many Credit Cards Coming to Fore

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
New York —(AP)—The new catalogue of my favorite mail order house has a special item: a red cowhide wallet with windows for 80 credit cards. And no space for cash.

This is completely in line with current trends. The American dollar is obviously on its way to obsolescence. Soon it may be like the English guinea—they know what it stands for, but nobody ever sees one. The British, in fact, don't make guineas any more, although they still quote prices in terms of this old monetary unit.

At the moment, the last bastions of cash seem to be parking meters, five-and-dime stores and supermarkets. And even the supermarkets are adjusting to a cashless society. Most have established a check-cashing facility near their "in" door. Then the cash is collected at the check-out counters. But at least shopping housewives have a chance to see greenbacks while taking their whirl around the shelves.

Credit is King
Milady's handbag, traditionally the subject for mignonettes' jokes, are looking more like card files in these days when credit is king. Things have come to such a pass that a girl would sooner forget her lipstick than her gasoline credit card, and her metal charge plate is as much a part of her going-out equipment as the car keys.

But it is the handbagless males who are really having it rough. As is well known, in some circles it is now considered not only crass but status-revealing to handle a restaurant tab with vulgar greenbacks. The man who would be considered by his peer group to be a cosmopolite, a sophisticate, must have credit established just about any place he might land so he can sign with a flourish.

It is not strange that men have taken to carrying small, flat leather attache cases. In most cases, they are empty or at best carry a couple of sandwiches. I know better: they contain credit cards.

Pay By Check
It is increasingly possible to get along almost indefinitely without money. You get your salary check with the taxes, social security, pension fund, hospitalization, insurance already removed, and you even can have your savings automatically deducted. The check does go intact into ones checking account. One sign and charges all month and eventually comes the day of reckoning, consisting of writing checks.

All this is likely to change, however, particularly with the problems of transporting all those cards. If one must carry a bulky case containing up to 80 embossed, decorated cards of unyielding cardboard, somebody is going to rediscover flexible slim money.

Just think back how handy greenbacks are: a $1,000 bill doesn't weigh an ounce more than a $1 bill. And users need not go to the bother later of writing checks, gluing envelopes and buying stamps. Wait until some status leader finds that out.

Designing Woman

The Bedroom—A Special World in a New Way

A wonderfully satisfying world-of-your-own bedroom comes to life today in many homes, both the new-built and the handsomely remodelled.

This new bedroom is larger than most homes have settled for years, and it's a personal haven for so much more than dressing and sleeping.

Living room-styled upholstered furniture brings the bedroom comfort to enjoy in relaxed solitude at any hour of the day. But it's the big businesslike desk, as capable as it is good looking, that's the newest thing about it and the reason the bedroom can make a big change in your life.

The desk makes the room headquarters for special accomplishment, a hide-away for briefcase homework, perhaps, but for all projects that get somewhere twice as fast when they can be worked on in quiet, alone.

These newly designed prize retreats often bring back the second fireplace. New homes built them for the bedroom, and remodelling which used to wall them up as large rooms divided into smaller ones now uncovers them with the remaking of plans for larger rooms again. Many a beautiful old mantel is discovered this way and restored, whether the room decoration is to be traditional or contemporary. Or a vast old-fashioned chimney provides opportunity for today's favorite wide fireplace wall styling. A novel example in this room installs a raised corner hearth.

The desk for this new cloistered delight of a bedroom is expansive and efficient. This one was designed for its author owner, but it can be and often is an executive desk now that there's so much top new design in the office furniture field. A love seat that's so inviting to drop down on might be an extra bed for a guest. Love seats that unfold a single bed forward can be had in both period-inspired modern shapes.

The best color for the room schemes quietly but smartly—here in gold and white, keyed by block patterned wall paper sparingly used, the gold decorated white shutters and citron carpet.

Moving to a new home? Find out beforehand how the old furniture will fit and what new furniture is needed. Plot it all on paper as the professional decorator does. Elizabeth Hillier's "Furniture Arrangement Kit" provides everything you need, floor plan paper, 126 furniture cut-outs, the making of plans for larger rooms again. Many a beautiful old mantel is discovered this way and restored, whether the room decoration is to be traditional or contemporary. Or a vast old-fashioned chimney provides opportunity for today's favorite wide fireplace wall styling. A novel example in this room installs a raised corner hearth.

Fire Station, Water Tank Sites Okayed

Both Recommended By Engineers to Serve Growth Areas

Purchase of sites for a northeast side fire station and southeast side water storage tank were approved by Appleton city council Wednesday.

The fire station site at Meade and Greenfield streets is 102 by 138 feet. It will be sold to the city by Martin Salm, 123 E. Marquette street, for $6,500. The board of public works will complete negotiations.

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings asked if the site has been approved by the state fire board as the most suitable in that area. Chief Paul Neumann said he chose the site because the board advised a station in that area. He will have it evaluated.

Ask Rezoning
A request from the public safety committee to have the site rezoned from residential to commercial and light industrial also was approved and will go to the planning commission.

The water tower site is on Clara street between Joseph and Christine streets in the Henry Schaefer plat.

The 21-lot site is to be purchased from Steinberg Real Estate Agency for $5,300.

A 2-lot site on Lindbergh street between Summit and Bennett streets for another storage tank was approved by the council two weeks ago, for $4,670.

A water commission request for the southeast side site was referred back to committee because the board of public work had been told both

Inquest Ends Without Ruling On Houle Death

Man Was Crushed As Auto Crashed Into Parked Cars

A coroner's inquest into the death of Donald J. Houle, 28, route 1, Appleton, ended Thursday without a verdict, but County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps will confer with Dist. Atty. George Greisch this afternoon on possible charges stemming from the accident.

Houle was crushed between two parked cars the night of May 15 when a car driven by Emil Zech, 73, of 2102 N. Division street, struck the rear of one of the cars. The accident took place on Highway 10 about one mile from Highway 45.

Houle was on his knees between the two cars attaching a chain between his auto and a disabled vehicle owned by Harlow Schmerler, 48, of 1314 N. Harriman street. Schmerler received a broken leg and broken feet in the accident.

Didn't See Lights
Schmerler, who is still confined at St. Elizabeth hospital, testified there Thursday that the lights of both the parked vehicles were on and he was directing traffic around the cars with a flashlight. Three cars had passed him before the Zech car struck the parked cars, Schmerler said.

Zech testified that he saw the vehicles parked in the right lane when he was about 160 feet from them, but said he did not see any taillights. He said he turned out to pass the parked cars but saw headlights of an oncoming vehicle, turned back into the right lane and was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident.

Skidded 50 Feet
Mrs. Marvin Gossen, 2606 Heather avenue, who was following the Zech car, said he was traveling between 45 and 50 miles an hour.

Mrs. Gossen testified that she saw Zech turn out to pass the parked cars and she noticed either the taillights or reflector on the rear of the disabled car. Zech then turned back into the right lane and struck the car, Mrs. Gossen said.

County policeman John Carpenter testified that the Zech car left 59 feet of skid marks. Schmerler said Houle had volunteered to help him after his car stopped at the intersection of Highways 45 and 10.

He added that when he saw the Zech car was going to crash into the parked vehicles he shouted for Houle to get clear, and then jumped between the cars and past Houle toward the ditch.

His legs were hit by the right front fender of his car.

Hollywood to Have New Movie Museum

On-Stage Sets, Exhibit Hall, Old Film Collection Some of Features

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood — Want to see a movie being made? Visitors to Hollywood will be able to achieve that oft-heard wish when the industry finally erects its movie museum.

After 50 years of nestling on these shores, the film business has come to the conclusion that it needs a place to house its lore and traditions and to show its glamorous aspects to the general public, Los Angeles county supervisors agreed. Now plans are underway to build the museum on a 4½-acre site opposite Hollywood Bowl.

Heading the industry's collection of ancient mementos is Sol Lesser, longtime ories. It will be a live affair, producer ("Our Town," "Stage Door Canteen," "Tarzan series"). At 70, he admits to having retired three times. But he can't resist coming back to make another movie or fight another cause. His present one is the museum.

"Did you know that 4½ million people come to southern California every year?" he inquired. "Do you know what most of them want to do? See a movie set. But nearly all of them go away disappointed. What do they see? The footprints at Grauman's Chinese and a few other things."

Movies Being Made
"All these years we have neglected a great public relations job. When the museum is built, we will be able to show visitors movies in actual production. This could be something that will bring a real revival in the public's interest in movies. And the museum could return Hollywood to the status as the center of the world film industry, some-Chaplin and D. W. Griffith thing that people have lost sight of in recent years."

Lesser emphasized that the start of the film industry. We museum will not be a musty, would show the actual docu-

Sam Levenson To Emcee New 'Talent Scouts'

Revived Version to Replace Thomas Show for Summer

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Radio-TV Writer

New York — Sam Levenson—who took over Arthur Godfrey's daytime TV show until it was cancelled—will replace the red-haired m. c. on a revamped version of "Talent Scouts." The show will start Aug. 1 as a 9-week replacement for Danny Thomas.

Godfrey, who isn't seen much on TV these days, will turn up as host on the finals of CBS' July 9 special on the final judging of the Miss Universe contest from Miami. Charles Collingswood will be anchorman, assisted by Jayne Meadows and George DeWitt will serve as m. c.

"This Is Your Life," Ralph Edwards' hardy surprise party, moves to an NBC Sunday night spot in the fall, where he'll fight the ratings battle with another perennial, "What's My Line?" on CBS.

When CBS' Dennis O'Keefe Show finally disappears in mid-June, it will be replaced with reruns of "Peck's Bad Girl," which was every bit as dreary when it made its appearance briefly some time back.

CBS is filling that still-sponsored but problem spot—Thursday evening, 9 to 10 p. m.—on June 9, with a concert by a reorganized CBS symphony orchestra which hasn't played since 1950. They will play Tchaikovsky, Berlioz and Rachmaninoff. This is the third evening of classical musical in the spot—an unexpected bonanza for the long hairs of the TV audience.

The nation's radio stations are participating in a traffic safety crusade—a fine idea with all the car radios and all the summer drivers and speaking of radio, Friday's episode of "Whisper in g

Foundation Drains One Flood Cause, Engineers Believe

Submit Interim Study Report On Sewer Problem to Bell

Neenah — An interim report, pointing to foundation drains as one major cause of sewer backups, was received today by Mayor Chester Bell, from Jerry Donohue, Engineering company, Sheboygan.

The engineering firm said it had been handicapped by weather conditions and the saturated condition of the ground, which has prevented any comparison of dry weather flow in the sewers with the abnormal conditions arising during heavy rains.

The report draws one definite conclusion, the mayor said: "It is quite evident that foundation drains are a major factor in the overloading of the sewer system."

The engineers recommend the council enact an ordinance excluding clear water contribution to the sanitary sewer. The mayor said this recommendation had of course been expected.

"Since our sewer system is entirely adequate most of the time and basement flooding results only in times of heavy rain, it has been obvious that the introduction of storm waters into our sanitary sewers causes the overload on our sewer system," the mayor continued.

Much Drain Tile Water
"We are confident that foundation drains lie at the root of our problem but only recently have learned to what extent they overload our system."

Seek Volunteers To Help Search For Lake Victim

Neenah — Volunteers are being sought to aid in the search Saturday for the body of Richard Nelson, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Nelson, 1072 Reed street, who drowned in Lake Winnebago about 10 miles north of Fond Du Lac Monday night.

Police Chief Irving Stulp is taking a crew of six policemen on the police boat if the weather permits. They will leave at 8 a.m. Saturday. The use of the police boat has been asked.

The volunteers are asked to take their boats by trailer to Columbia park on the east shore of Lake Winnebago, rather than to go across the lake. The dragging operations will begin about 9 a.m. The Fond Du Lac Yacht club is reported to have offered about 20 boats to aid in Saturday's dragging operations.

New Officers of the Menasha Lions club, installed Thursday, will be headed by Reynold Brantmeier, right. Guests at the installation were Shafeec Abdulla Mansour of Wausau, center, state secretary of multiple district 27 (Wisconsin and upper Michigan), who spoke, and Clem Dewane, zone chairman.

at 10 to 20 gallons per minute. Even the lower of these estimates means 600 gallons per hour or over 14,000 gallons per day as compared with the normal sewerage load of 150 gallons per day per person."

Mayor Bell declared it is not to be expected that any sanitary sewer system will be designed with reserve capacity sufficient to carry off such tremendous overloads.

The city attorney has been working for some time on the draft of an ordinance which will forbid the introduction of storm water into sanitary sewers. Several other communities in the state have adopted similar ordinances and it is confidently expected an ordinance to this effect will be introduced to the council within a short time, he cited.

Student Council Head

The homemaker award was presented to Jane Gavin while Gladys Fennerties in the state have adopted similar ordinances and it is confidently expected an ordinance to this effect will be introduced to the council within a short time, he cited.

Other Conditions

"Undoubtedly, there are other conditions which contribute to the overloading of our sewers which result in basement flooding. Several of these, however, cannot be ferreted out until conditions are more nearly normal. The engineers expect to check quite thoroughly the conditions in the interceptor sewer which carries sewage accumulated in Neenah to the sewage disposal plant. This investigation, however, is impossible while the river level is so high."

Mayor Bell said it is entirely possible that defective port from the consultants from storm sewers contribute additional storm waters to the sanitary sewer.

The saturated condition of the ground at present has delayed this investigation but is expected that valuable information can be discovered when conditions have returned to normal.

All of these investigations will be pressed vigorously as soon as possible and will be fully covered in the final report from the consultants. The mayor asked that any householder in the meantime who has information on the quantity of storm water discharged to his sanitary sewer from drain tile give this information to Wayne Bryan, public works director.

$80 Million Interchange Told to Rotary

4-Level Highway Structure for Milwaukee Planned

Neenah — An $80 million 4-level traffic interchange reaching up 100 feet above the ground has been designed for the interstate highway connection. E. J. Konkol, executive vice president of the Wisconsin Bituminous Paving association, told the Neenah Rotary club at the Valley Inn Thursday noon.

The interchange would be located just south of the Chicago and North Shore depot. Since boat traffic has the right-of-way over all other traffic, the engineers have designed the interchange so that there will be no traffic interruptions for boats.

Were the interchange lower, every boat going through would require a halting of traffic. The lowest of the four levels will be 40 feet above the ground and each level will be 20 feet higher than the last, reaching up to a 100-foot height.

The 4-level interchange is designed for the greatest safety in handling traffic and to eliminate cars turning left in front of other cars.

From an economic standpoint, considering the lengthy delays usually encountered in rush periods, the investment is warranted, Konkol told the Rotarians.

From an economic standpoint, considering the lengthy delays usually encountered in rush periods, the investment is warranted, Konkol told the Rotarians.

Interstate System

He outlined what has already been done in the interstate highway program in Wisconsin which will have 452 miles of the 41,000-mile system. The federal government provides 90 per cent of the cost and the state 10 per cent. The state's plans call for a divided 4-lane strip with the median strip 50 feet wide and depressed to make for greater safety. One reason for the Wisconsin Bituminous Paving association, told the Neenah Rotary club at the Valley Inn Thursday noon.

Since boat traffic has the right-of-way over all other traffic, the engineers have designed the interchange so that there will be no traffic interruptions for boats.

Cost Per Mile

The cost for the interstate highway construction has run as high as $1 million a mile as high as $1 million a mile in Racine and Kenosha counties, where the right-of-way purchases were costly, but should run about $500,000 to $600,000 in some of the western counties which are more sparsely settled, Konkol thought.

He told the Rotarians they should resist any attempt to take gasoline tax money and motor vehicle license fees and use them for other purposes, such as schools. The highway funds should be kept segregated and used only for highway construction programs, he maintained.

Board of Appeals Votes New Home

Menasha — The city board of appeals Wednesday approved issuing a building permit for a new home at 703 Fifth street, to be built for Alvin Rommek.

The board action was required because a small home already is on the lot to be used, but at one corner. When the small home is vacated, it must be removed, the board ordered.

Addition to a lumber storage shed owned by Wisconsin Lumber company, 145 Kaukauna street, also was approved by the board. Action was required because of confused legal description of the lot and the firm's wish to build close to the lot line.

The board denied an application of Richard Rohe, 946 E. Fourth street, for a garage to be placed less than the allowable three feet from the lot line. The board upheld Allen E. Merrill, building and plumbing inspector, in his denial of the permit.

The May building projects for last year came to $338,440.

Constructed of Tennessee Stone in tones of rich brown and tan panelled in cherry, the fireplace in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kuchenbecker conveys a feeling of warm hospitality. Amend Neenah Zoning Law

Dry Cleaning
To Be Allowed in Commercial Areas

Neenah — Council members Wednesday night amended the zoning ordinance to permit self-service laundries and dry cleaning establishments in commercial districts instead of just in industrial zones.

Such use is permitted if the firm uses fluids designated as non-inflammable by the Underwriters Laboratories. No one appeared for or against the change at a hearing held Wednesday night.

The change was requested by Douglas Gunderson, operator of a Menasha dry cleaning firm who wants to open a dry cleaning place at the new Louv-Fox Point shopping center. The plans commission re-

McIntire Adds British Title To Collection

Defeats Ireland's Philomena Garvey In Finals, 4 and 2

Harlech, Wales —Barbara McIntire, holder of both the American and British women's amateur golf titles today shrugged off all talk about turning professional.

"I plan to continue playing amateur golf and will defend my national amateur at Tulsa in August," the 25-year-old Lake Park, Fla., brunette said.

Only a fifth of the schedule has been played, it's true, but there are signs that indicate this might be the exciting, contender-type team fans hereabouts have hoped for but seldom, if ever, had a chance to watch in previous years of Class B and D ball.

We're hearing far more talk among sports fans about this young, well-balanced and hustling club than about either of the first two editions of the Foxes.

Wrecks It Up
But the Florida girl slammed away with par golf and finally wrapped it up on the thirty-fourth.

Miss McIntire, who started favorite in the field of 82 golfers from Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Australia and Ireland, was the girl with the steady dependable game from tee to green.

So the girl who started playing golf with sawed-off clubs at the age of nine and won her first title, the Western Junior, at the age of 17, joined the greats of women's golf.

She now rates with names like Louise Suggs and Babe Zaharias in the list of women who have won both the American and British titles.

"I'm going to continue working in my father's real estate business," Miss McIntire said.

Topeka Reds Make First 1960 Invasion

The 1960 Fox Cities Foxes will be shooting for a 3-year club record of consecutive wins — eight — when they entertain Topeka at 8:30 p.m. today in the opener of a 4-game weekend series.

Manager Johnny Vander Meer's Reds, who are making their first visit of the season, will also be at Goodland field for an 8 p.m. game Saturday and for a day-night doubleheader (1:30 and 8 p.m.) Sunday. The Foxes won two out of three at Topeka in their first Kansas invasion.

Green Bay —Packer quarterbacks will gather here June 21 for a week of preliminary work.

Coach Vince Lombardi hopes Dale Hackbart, the Wisconsin signal caller and defensive halfback, will be among them.

Hackbart, himself, isn't sure he'll be here. "I'll know in about a week. I'll have my mind made up definitely by that time," he said in Madison today.

Pirates Interested

The former Badger star is torn between baseball and football. He prefers baseball, but he'd like a bonus to sign —probably a hefty one.

Baseball scouts haven't been knocking down his door, but the Pittsburgh Pirates are definitely interested.

Rush Saves Spahn's Third Win of Year

Philadelphia —The Milwaukee Braves gained an impressive early lead over the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night but then had to hang tough to stagger home with a 9-8 victory.

As has been the case in many of their recent games, the Braves' hurlers weakened in the closing periods and the result was in doubt until the closing minutes.

A 3-run nine-inning splurge by the Braves at the expense of Gene Conley, a former Milwaukee moundsman, and some excellent relief pitching by Bob Rush in the Rush half of the final inning gave the Tribesman the victory. Rush fanned the last two men to face him with the tying run on second base.

Yields 12 Hits
Warren Spahn started for Milwaukee and was pounded for 12 hits in six innings before he turned the ball over to Don McMahon who was clobbered for four hits and three runs in 2 and 1-3 innings before Rush came in to put out the fire.

Spahn got credit for the victory. The loser was Taylor Phillips. Spahn now is 3-2.

Felix Mantilla and Henry Aaron got home runs for Milwaukee while Tony Taylor got a 4-base blow off Spahn. It was Aaron's tenth homer of the season, giving him a tie with Eddie Mathews of the Braves for the team lead in that department.

Milwaukee was out in front by a 6-5 score when the final inning started. Wes Covington greeted Conley with a double, Johnny Logan was purposely passed and Del Crandall singled in one and Billy Bruton doubled over the two runs to give Milwaukee a 9-5 lead.

McMahon walked Taylor to open the last of the ninth. Al Dark was safe on an error. Tony Curry fanned but Ken Walters singled home Taylor.

Harry Anderson ripped a double down the right field line for two more runs and Rush

Baltimore Sweeps Yankee Series; Estrada Wins, 6-5

Stigman Keeps Indians From Losing Ground, Saves Another

By The Associated Press

A year ago, Dick Stigman was a 17-game loser in the minors. Now he's Cleveland's relief ace, a southpaw stopper who has kept the Indians close to Baltimore in that American league pennant race.

While the Orioles have taken over first place by winning 11 of their last 14 games, Cleveland's 8-game major league record of 30 set in 1950.

Stigman, 24, who had a 9-17 record at San Diego in the Pacific Coast league last season, relieved winner Jim Grant (3-1) with three runs home and two out in the ninth.

Dick Williams' pinch single scored another run, but after pinch-hitter Hank Bauer walked, Stigman got Harry Chitt on a fly, ending the A's winning string at five.

Tito Francona, Woodie Held and Johnny Romano homered for the Indians' last six runs, all off Ray Herbert (2-4). Marv Throneberry hit a 2-run homer for the A's.

The Orioles scored all their runs on three homers for a 3-game sweep over the Yankees and their seventh victory in eight games.

Gene Woodling's home run won it, cracking a 5-5 tie in the eighth against Art Ditmar (2-3). Brooks Robinson's 1-on home run had tied it 2-all in the fifth, and Jim Gentile then gave the Birds a 5-4 lead in the sixth with a 3-run homer. Chuck Estrada won it in relief.

Bill Skowron and Roger Maris drove in all of the Yankees' runs and had six of their 10 hits. Each hammered a homer off starter Hoyt Wilhelm, with Maris keeping the AL lead with his twelfth.

The White Sox bowed to the batting prowess of Charley Maxwell, who hammered out a pair of homers.

Maxwell homered in the first inning to put Detroit in front and then broke a 3-3 tie in the eighth with another homer off loser Russ Kemmerer (1-3).

The Sox belted out 12 hits including three by Roy Sievers and three by Al Smith but couldn't connect when it counted.

The Senators walloped five home runs, two by Bill Gardner, who hit a grand slam in the nightcap. Gardner, Jim Lemon and Bob Allison unloaded in the opener as Washington beat Ike Delock (0-1).

Don Lee (1-0) was the winner. A 2-out triple by Faye Throneberry beat Frank Sullivan (1-6). Pete Ramos (3-6) was the winner.

Pennant Fever Is Creeping Into Baltimore, but Players are Cautious

Baltimore, Md. (AP)—Pennant fever is creeping into this port city like the Chesapeake Bay tide.

Sure, everybody knows it's only June 3. But a man can still talk about the World Series.

Woodling Gentile

That was the seventh victory in eight games for the Birds, their eleventh in the last 13 and their seventeenth of the last 22.

Once again, it was just the right combination of experience and youth that did the trick. Homers by youngsters Jim Gentile and Brooks Robinson and veteran Gene Woodling provided the power. Rookie Chuck Estrada got the victory in relief of oldtimer Hoyt Wilhelm.

Although the fans are talking pennant, the players naturally are cautious.

"I wish it were Oct. 2 right now," says Gentile. "We've got 112 more games to play."

How about the veteran Woodling? "I've been around too long not to know that all you can do is play them one at a time. We don't have the kind of a league this year that you can predict any pennant at this stage. If we're in the same position on Sept. 1, I might feel differently."

"If we can keep picking each other up, we'll be okay," says Robinson. "That's been the reason for our success. One day, I may be off and (Ron) Hansen or (Jackie) Brandt comes through. The next game it's always somebody else delivering the clutch."

It's a far cry from last year when the Orioles had to depend on Woodling and Gus Triandos for nearly all their power.

Now young Hansen is battling the Yanks' Roger Maris for the league lead in RBIs.

Both Maris and Hansen have 32, but Gentile is right behind him with 29. Robinson has 24 and Woodling 19.

Three Walks
Milwaukee scored in the first inning on a single by Mantilla and walks to Eddie Mathews, Joe Adcock and Mel Roach. Two more runs came home in the second on a walk to Spahn and singles by Bruton, Mathews and Aaron.

The Braves added another run in the third on singles by Roach and Logan and a sacrifice by Crandall and Spahn's sacrifice fly.

Mantilla and Aaron got their home runs in the fourth inning, and the Braves were held scoreless until the ninth by Humberto Robinson and Chris Short.

Doubles by Taylor and Dark gave the Phils a run in the first and then Spahn held them off until two runs were scored by the Phils in the fifth on four hits. Spahn was relieved in the seventh after Taylor had homered and Dark singled. Dark went to third on Roach's fumble. Curry got an infield hit to score Dark.

The Braves open a brief home stand tonight, meeting Cincinnati. Carl Willey (2-3) is slated for mound duty for Milwaukee against either Cal McLish (2-4) or Jay Hook (4-3).

Easing Credit Ups Stocks

Steels, Motors, Some Oils Show Steady Advances

New York —A— Steels, rails, motors, some oils and other neglected issues advanced today on news of easing credit. Trading was moderate early this afternoon.

Front - running electronics and other "science" stocks were subjected to further profit taking. They lost from 1 to 3 points.

Gains of pivotal issues in other sections of the list went mostly from fractions to about a point, steels cutting early gains which in some cases ran to about 2.

Wall Street was encouraged by the Federal Reserve Board's approval of a reduction in the discount rate from 4 per cent to 3 1/2 per cent in the district banks of Philadelphia and San Francisco. But a move toward easier credit was partly anticipated by Thursday's rallying market.

and a vigorous early rise lost steam as trading progressed this afternoon.

The most bullish effect of the discount rate was on the bond market. A scattering of "yield" stocks and high-grade preferreds made gains on the Big Board.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.19 at 630.06.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 to 216.60 with the industrials up 1.10, the rails up .90 and the utilities unchanged.

U.S. government bonds jumped sharply. Corporates advanced on an extremely broad front.

AHS Students Receive Awards, Diplomas

The Largest Graduating Class in Appleton High school's 56-year history filled the extended stage of the school auditorium for commencement exercises Thursday night. With the aid of teachers with portable public-address speakers, the 508 blue-clad seniors formed two lines the length of the school hall before marching into the auditorium. Six students comprised a symposium on "1960, a Year of Decision," and Dr. Glen Eye spoke on "the Increasing Respect for Intelligence." With the students who are expected to be graduated at the end of summer school, the class of 1960 will total 525 students, Principal Herbert H. Helble said.

Scholarship Winners. Standing from left, are William Simon, recipient of the Rotary scholarship; Bonnie Davidson, Memorial Hospital auxiliary; Dian Munchow, Business and Professional Women's club; and Pat Joyce, American Association of University Women. Seated are Sue Washechek, Junior Chamber of Commerce auxiliary; Mary Captaine, Girls' Athletic association, and Sharon Bauerlein, Riverside Paper company.

The Climax to 12 or more years in school came Thursday for the 508 students who completed their high school education at Appleton High. Scholarships, awards and other honors awarded at a morning assembly made the day especially significant for a number of them. In the evening was the 56th annual commencement program, when the graduates were formally sent out into the world in which they will continue their education in colleges, universities or technical schools, join the nation's wage earners or begin married life. Stories and other pictures of the awards day assembly and commencement are on Pages A-3 and A-11.

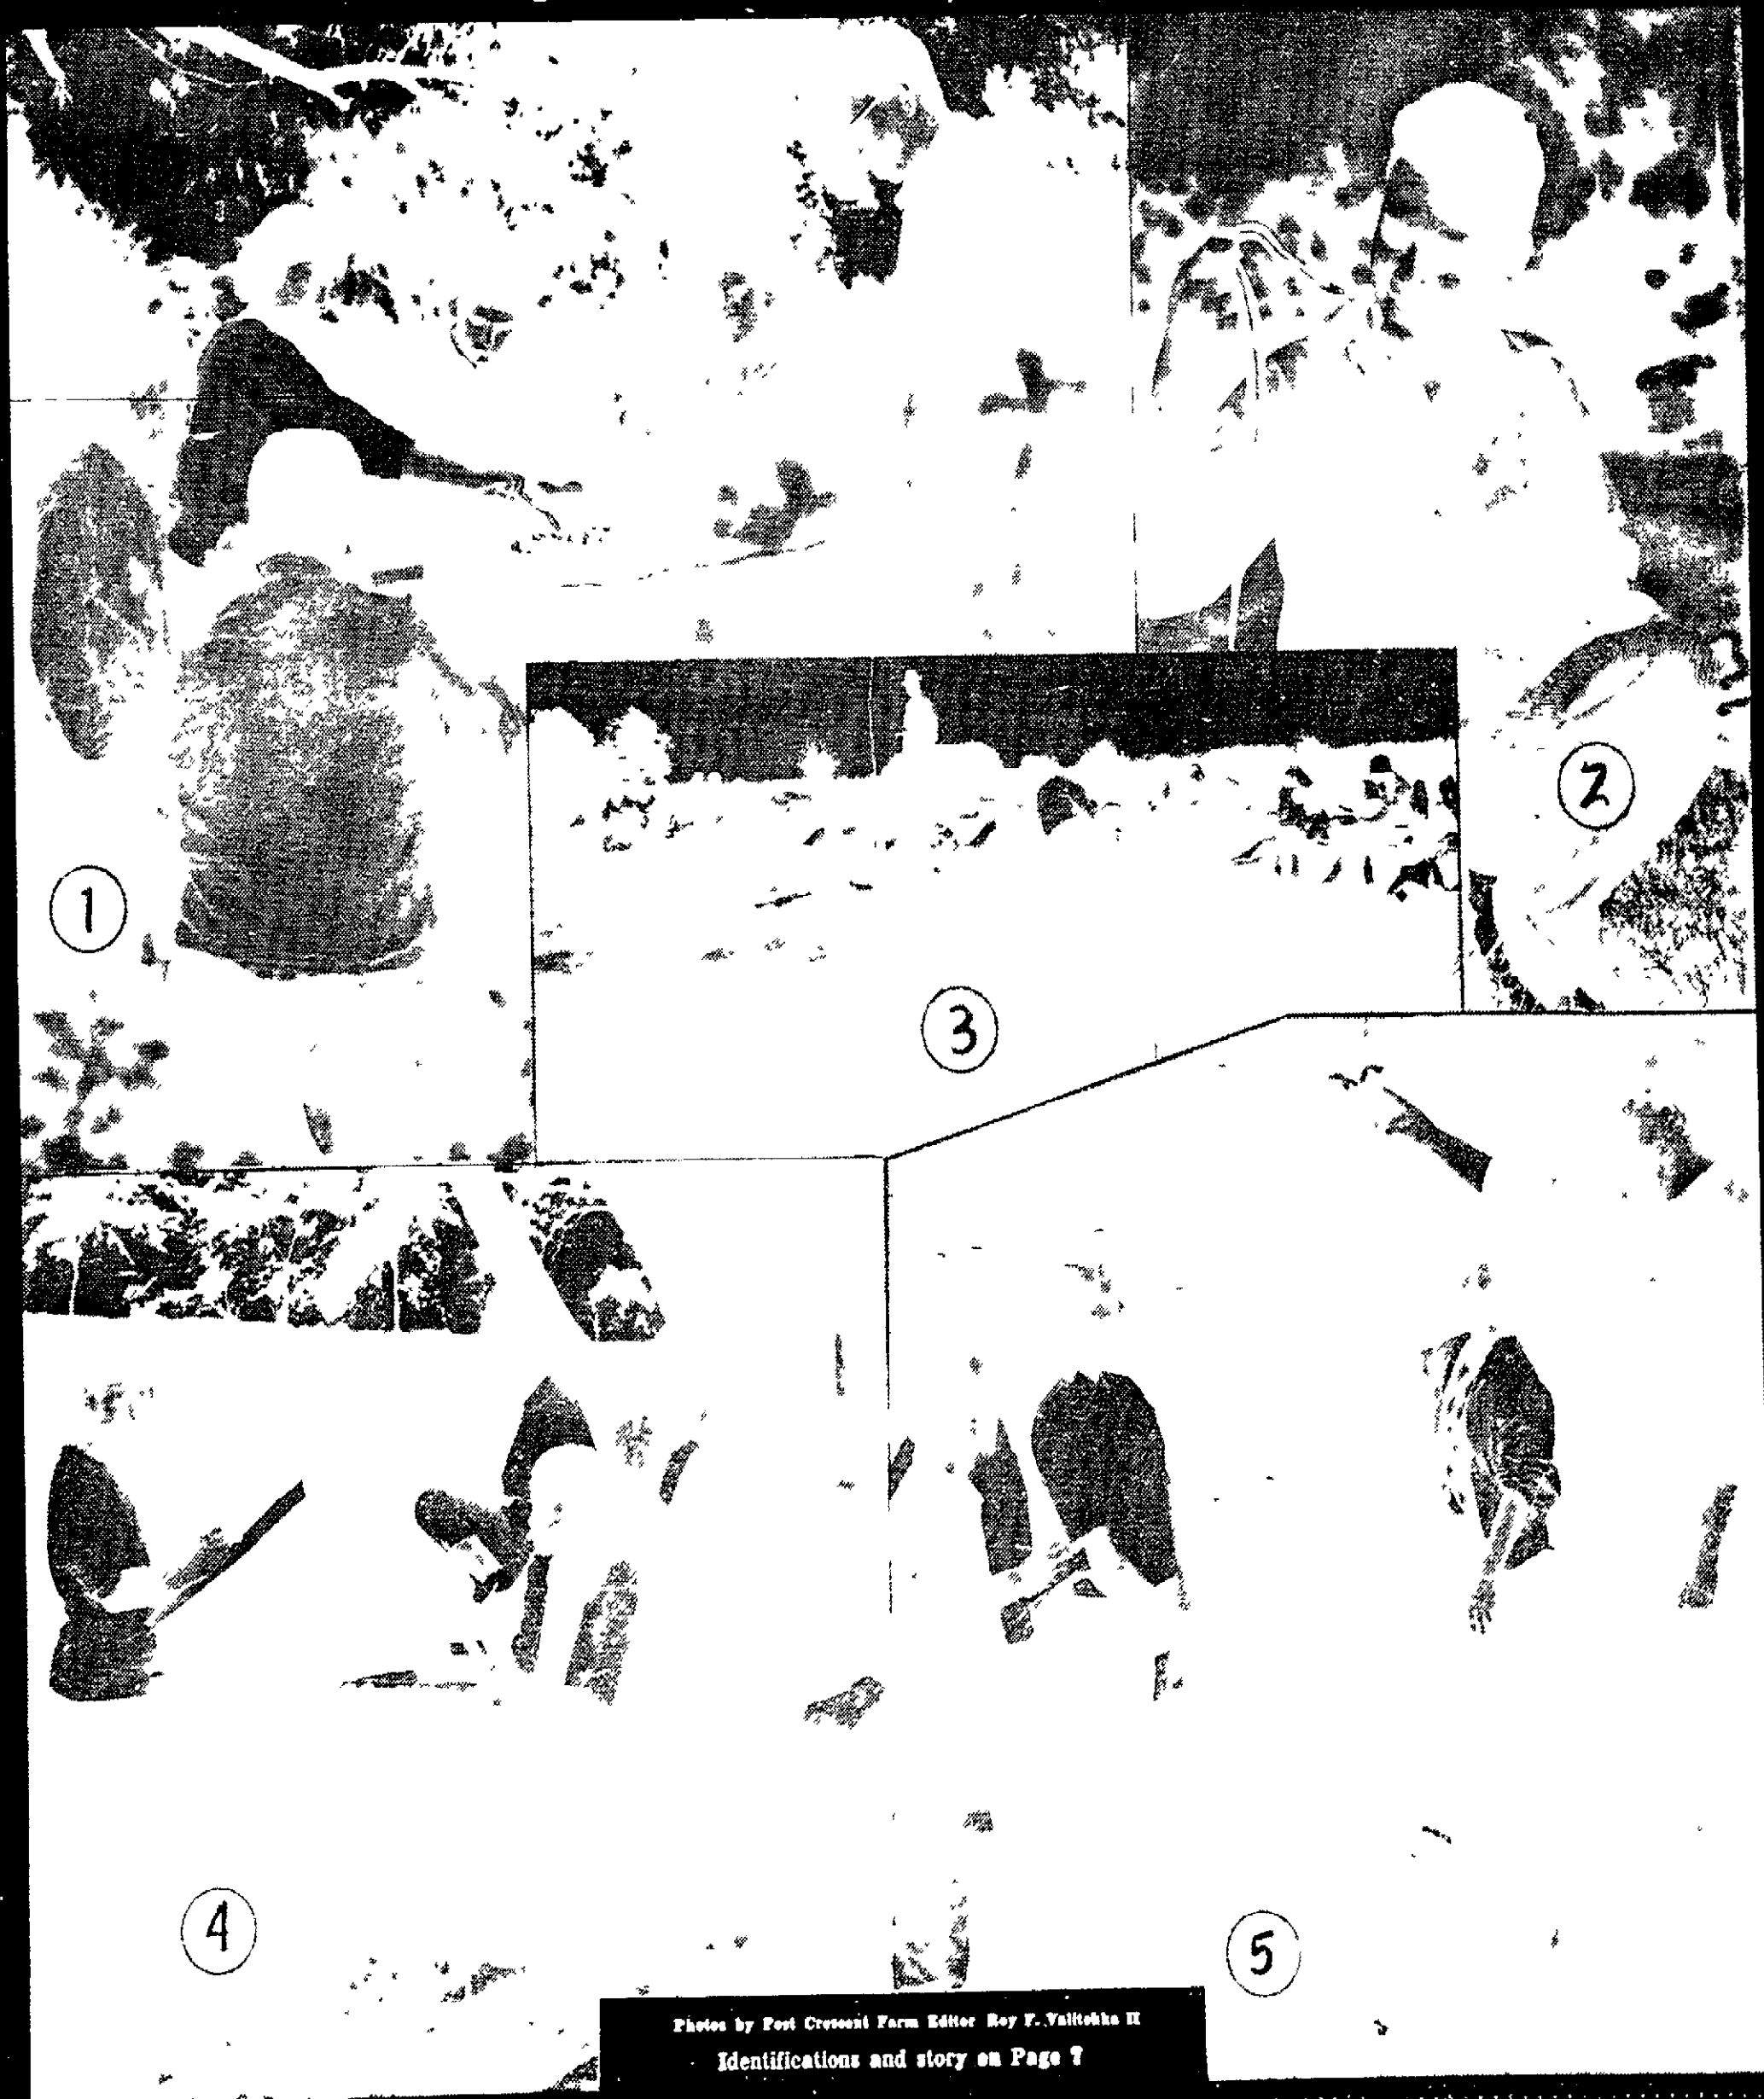

Miss Ruth McKennan, Right, who is retiring after 41 years of service at Appleton High school, received the first copy of the 1960 yearbook from Principal Herbert H. Helble at the school's honor assembly Thursday.

Winter Takes High Toll of Raspberries

Raspberry plantings show an unusual amount of die back this spring.

The canes have been hurt by winterkill, not insects or diseases.

The kill can be traced to last fall, September and October were warm and moist. More than 5.5 inches of rain fell in October as measured at Madison. Canes were encouraged to grow. They were soft and tender into late fall. Then came November with 22 days below average temperature. For example on Nov. 17 the thermometer hit one below zero—28 degrees below normal. These rapid drops were more than the tender raspberry buds could stand.

Some varieties — Latham, June and Durham — came through best. Viking and Indian Summer had fair survival. Early Red, September and Williamette had poorest survival.

Of the purple varieties Marion came through better than Sodus, although both had considerable die back.

Wheel Track May be Recommended

Oshkosh — Wheel-track planting of small grain may become a recommended practice, particularly on fields subject to erosion, and on fields which may be spring plowed.

The first farm in Winnebago county to wheel-track plant small grain was the Harold Bradley farm near Pickett in Utica township. The Bradley farm is operated by Lawrence and Wayne, sons of Harold.

A packer - press - grain drill unit was obtained from a farm machinery manufacturing company and through the efforts of David Luft, employed at Bradley's and a re-

Farmers Limited In Corn Supports

Farmers who intend to plant large acreages of corn for price support will be limited to a maximum of $50,000 on nonrecourse price support loans unless they file an application for exemption from the price support limitation at their county ASC office.

To be eligible for an unlimited nonrecourse price support loan on his 1960 crop corn a producer must reduce his 1959 corn acreage 20 per cent. This means that a producer who grew 600 acres of corn averaging 100 bushel per acre must reduce his 1959 acreage by 20 percent or 120 acres. In 1960 he could plant 480 acres of corn. If his application for exemption from the price support limitation was approved, he would be eligible for unlimited price support on all of the corn produced on the 480 acres.

Price support in excess of $50,000 on the commodity for which the producer has not made the required 20 per cent reduction of production or fails to file an application for exemption will be made only through recourse price support advances. The commodity covered by the advance cannot be delivered. Recourse loans must be repaid.

adequate from the University of Wisconsin farm short - course. The college of agriculture contacted the company for this but not generally available these parts of the entour Planting was done on corn. The field had been a sod. It had been at six inches deep last year a tool chisel.

one operation it was with a sixteen inch, bottom plow, attached a 4-foot wide packer and a press wheel. The commercial fertilizer clover seed all went in one operation. A trip over the field was needed to plow, then one more to smooth the land, then a trip to regular drill, then drag pack it — at least four operations.

Machine Operation is the way it works. The pulverizer makes 16 tracks an inch or so apart. The seed and fertilizer falls in tracks. Drill discs cover grain with one and a half inches of soil. Small hay crop seeds drop next. Then the press wheels firm the seed in the individual tracks.

Research was done with wheel-track planting of grain at three University of Wisconsin research farms in 1959. The project was headed by Arthur Peterson, soils research specialist. Stations were located at Valders, in Manitowoc county, Marshfield, and Spooner. Yields were increased from 12 to 14 per cent over yields with the conventional type of grain drill. Advantages gained by the research specialist are quicker germination by as much as one-third of the normal, better root development of the seedlings, less soil and water erosion and higher yields. The trials were conducted in clay and silt loam.

Glass Bottles Used More for Milk Quantities

A record-breaking increase in the use of large size glass milk bottles is reported by the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

R. L. Cheney, executive director and marketing manager of the institute says, "our latest figures show a 24 per cent increase in glass gallons for 1959."

"One of the impressive factors in the rapid growth of the milk-by-the-gallon trend is the widespread adoption of the larger size by some of the largest nation-wide dairies previously not bottling gallons. The gallon appears to be firmly established as a popular size with consumer demand increasing rapidly."

"Glass half-gallon bottles have been firmly established for a longer period and are also rapidly increasing in popularity. The half-gallon is extensively used by leading dairies. Many distributors have installed new large size glass equipment."

Weather Delays Hatch of Harmful Spittlebugs

Cool, wet weather has been holding back the "spittlebug" hatch.

Ellsworth Fisher, University of Wisconsin insect specialist, says the yellowish bugs will be a week or so late this year in their attacks on the alfalfa crop. Spittlebug eggs generally hatch during the first week in May and the nymphs move up into the lower leaves of alfalfa and clover.

The specialist warns farmers to keep a sharp lookout for the nymphs. Once the spittlebug masses show up on leaves, control is too late.

Liquid methoxychlor, mixed in 20 or more gallons of water per acre, stops the bugs. After spraying, hold off on grazing or harvesting for seven days, Fisher says. Otherwise, methoxychlor can contaminate milk products.

Spittlebugs attack the first crop of alfalfa and clover. Infested plants can be "foolers" because they keep their green color. Bugs reduce yield by stunting plants. Quackgrass and similar weeds take over once plants are stunted.

Yields from treated alfalfa and clover plots were 28 per cent higher in several years of testing at the university. Spraying raised the feed value almost one-third in the trials.

Fisher estimates this represents an additional $10 to $15 per acre in extra feed value for farmers who spray for spittlebugs. Spray costs run about $3.25 per acre—$2 for methoxychlor and $1.25 for spray operation.

Hardest hit by spittlebugs are usually the two tiers of counties along the eastern and southern boundaries of the state.

Norrbom Farms' Cattle Rates Only 'Excellent'

Wittenberg — Registered Holsteins on the Norrbom farms, route 1, Wittenberg, fared well when classification experts of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America completed a 2-day inspection.

The youthful Norrbom brothers, Carl and David, town of Elderon, again brought plaudits from the classifiers, John Stewart, Des Moines, Iowa, official inspector and Charles C. Brace, Lone Rock.

Results of the classification showed the Norrboms to again have the only Holstein cow in Marathon county to be rated "excellent" in the national registry. Sixteen cows in the herd were rated very good and 24 good plus.

Guernsey Farmers to Show at Fond du Lac

The Fond du Lac county grand champions and best udder fair grounds will be the scene of the 1960 tri-county Guernsey parish show June 13. Guernsey breeders from Fond du Lac, Winnebago and Outagamie counties are sponsoring the show which will feature the six top animals in herds. The show is open to all owners of registered Guernseys in Wisconsin. Ribbons will be awarded top cows and trophies to the

Long Rains Aid Growth Of Fungus

Prolonged rainy weather has favored the development of apple scab fungus, especially on McIntosh apple trees.

Constant moisture encourages spore infection on the buds and new leaves. Old leaves on the ground discharge the spores and wind carries them to the new growth on apple trees where the spores germinate and form a scab spot.

Spore discharge begins at "bud break" and continues two or three weeks until petal fall.

Secondary spores develop from the first spots and cause new scab infections every seven to 18 days. Warm weather shortens the cycle. These secondary growths call for repeated cover sprays at 10-day intervals during the summer.

Apple growers can control scab fungus with a fungicide spray mixture (captan, mercury or dodine or an "all-purpose" fruit spray mixed at home).

Two thumb rules for good spray coverage are get two-thirds of the spray into the upper third of the tree and use enough spray per tree. A gallon covers an average 7 or 8-foot tree. Five gallons treat a tree 14 to 15 feet tall.

There will be seven divisions for bull, 13 for females and three in the group class. FFA or 4-H dairy members are invited to compete with one bonafide 4-H or FFA project animal of choice. Judging shall be based on type, 50 per cent; showmanship, 25 per cent, and fitting, 25 per cent. Top prize is a pen and pencil set presented by the Wisconsin Guernsey Breeders' association.

Calumet County Grain Acreage 60 Per Cent Sown

Chilton — Approximately 60 per cent of the normal Calumet county small grain acreage has been seeded, Orrin Meyer, county agent, has announced.

Meyer also reported that about 75 per cent of the peas, the crop expected to be hardest hit by the wet spring, have been sown. However, some late canning peas have been substituted for the early Alaskas.

As of Wednesday approximately one-fifth of the normal sugar beet acreage was in along with some corn.

On fields where small grains cannot be sown, Meyer suggested substitution of soybeans, flax, sudan Piper grass or buckwheat. He expects some oats to be cut into the silo when in the dough stage and corn acreage to be left to stand for ripe ears.

Soft fields also have hampered grazing. About 50 per cent of county livestock is on green feed with the remainder on stored hay resulting in a severe drain. Fortunately the hay crop came through in fair condition, Meyer added.

MEYER Hay Conditioner "ROLLS IN" Extra Feed Value!

For best quality hay, roll it through a fast, rugged Meyer Hay Conditioner. Stems are cracked entire length—not crimped—dry in half-the-time, remain pliable, green, sweet-smelling, and keep their protein-packed leaves. Juices are sealed in—hay has greater feed value... brings several dollars per ton more than ordinary hay. Yet Meyer is priced lower.

New Improved large diameter Rotary Pick-Up lifts, loosens and feeds hay uniformly to new exclusive, non-dragging steel rolls—floats freely over rocks and terraces. Works under all conditions—heavy or thin hay—smooth or uneven rocky terrain.

Condition while you cut. Use your own mower with Model 650, or get Model 660 with built-in-mower, a Meyer patented feature. Model 200, without separate pick-up, is for use on smooth, rock-and-terrace-free fields. Does superior job to crisper-type machine.

Meyer—1st in the Field—Original and Oldest Manufacturer of Hay Conditioners with 8 Years More Experience Than All Other Makes.

Milk Cow Prices Hit All-Time High in April

Madison —(7)— Milk cow prices in Wisconsin in April were the highest for that month since 1952, the state department of agriculture reported.

The price advanced $5 a head from March to bring an April price of $260. This is $5 a head more than April of last year and the highest since the near-record April average of $293 in 1952.

The department said that farmers are now receiving prices for milk averaging the highest for any spring since 1953. Milk prices showed a season drop of only three cents from March and the April price was up 22 cents from a year ago.

Rural Homes, Schools To Have Tornado Plan

Farm, City Leaders Band Together in Winnebago County to Complete Protection

BY VERNON PEROUTKY
Winnebago County Agent

Every rural and suburban home and all schools will have a plan for human life protection should a tornado or fire hit. That's the objective of a committee in launching a special emphasis, 2-year project in Winnebago county.

Peroutky

Members of the committee are: Alvin Asmus, volunteer fireman, route 1, Neenah; Mrs. Wilbert Bondow, school board member, route 1, Larsen; Mrs. Arden Christensen, extension homemaker leader, route 2; Omro; Mrs. Ervin Lange, Oakwood school, route 4, Oshkosh; Floyd Miller, vocational agriculture instructor, Oshkosh High school, Oshkosh; Mrs. Maxine Ott, county superintendent of schools, court house, Oshkosh; Frank Pischke, representative, Pomona grange, Oshkosh; Gordon Raddatz, representative farm bureau, Oshkosh; Mrs. Elsie Radl, Oak Grove school, Oshkosh; Mrs. William Roycraft, 4-H club leader, Omro, and Elmer Sievert, volunteer fireman, Neenah.

This group was called together by our office late last fall. They had been asked earlier to come up with ideas for a county-wide community service or community betterment project. The human life, tornado and fire protection idea was uppermost.

Action Programs

Several of the groups, such as the rural 1-room and graded schools, and 4-H clubs, already have launched action programs.

The committee desired factual information, especially on tornado protection. In May the University of Wisconsin, college of agriculture, released the first printing of a circular stating tornado facts. We have a supply for reference in our homes and schools.

Here is an outline of the initial contents of the tornado circular: It has a sketch to help to learn the tornado season, and the time of day it is most likely to hit; there is a description of a tornado, its speed, size and direction, and it lists 10 ideas on what to do should a tornado hit.

Second Half

The second half of the circular sketches various places to go for protection with limitations of each, such as basements, storm cellars, and ditches. An explanation is made of the inner workings of the seven U. S. weather bureaus in Wisconsin. When one hears tornado warnings on radio or television, it's interesting to know how these forecasts are developed by the Green Bay weather bureau.

New Sprays May Near All-Purpose Crop Use

University of Wisconsin Bulletins List Chemicals Which Will Cover Most Plants

BY JOHN E. POWERS
Outagamie County Agent

Every fruit grower or gardener looks for the all purpose spray to use on all types of crops. New chemicals are coming close to making this possible. The University of Wisconsin lists such sprays for vegetables, flowers, ornamentals and fruit.

The all purpose vegetable dust or spray contains Zineb for disease control, Methoxychlor and Malathion for insect control. These materials can be safely used to within two weeks of harvest. The best recommendation is to apply when needed. However, it is a good idea to treat at least every 10 to 14 days. The all purpose flower and ornamental dust or spray should contain Zineb or Captan, Sulphur, DDT or Methoxychlor. For additional insect control, Malathion may be included. Malathion is especially effective against aphids. Phaltan, a new fungicide is good to use on roses because it is quite effective against Black Spot and Mildew.

For the fruit grower, the University of Wisconsin recommendation for an all purpose spray is Captan, Malathion and Methoxychlor. Diazinon a newer material can be substituted for Methoxychlor. This material gives better control of apple maggot which has been a serious problem in recent years. Fruit trees should be sprayed at least twice before bloom, again at petal fall, and then every 10 days, until 15 days before harvest.

Prevent Mold, Rot
Strawberries should be treated every seven to 10 days with Captan. This application will prevent berry mold and rot. Once the berries start to form, insecticides are not recommended. If spittle bugs, plant bugs, red spiders and leaf rollers are a problem, it is too late to treat this year, but good control can be gotten by using the all purpose fruit spray in early spring as soon as the first blossom buds appear.

Raspberry pest and disease control include the use of a dormant spray such as Elgetol when leaf buds are just starting to show green. The next spray is just before the blossoms open, using Chlor-dane or DDT plus Captan. The spray program should continue every 10 days using Captan. This program gives good control to Spur Blight, Anthracnose and Cane borers.

Spray programs for grapes, cherries and peaches are very similar. Some of the most important tips for using spray and insecticides are to get it on at the right time, do a good job and use the right material.

For fruit trees it is recommended to use 2-3 of the necessary spray on the upper 1-3 of the tree. One gallon of spray should cover a 7-foot tree. Be sure to use all precaution with respect to plant and human safety. Check instructions on the chemical container regarding their use on vegetables and fruits to avoid residues at harvest time.

Complete schedules and recommendations are available from the county extension office.

Grazing Hurt By Weather

Cool Air, Wet Cause High Pasture Moisture

Cool, wet weather and empty barns and silos made a bad combination at the start of a grazing season in the Fox Cities area.

Early grass is high in moisture and cows need more than just pasture. Barn or yard feeding for a reasonable time is wise after the cows go into new pasture.

Abrupt changes can lead to production slumps, bloat and other feeding troubles. Filling cows with hay before they start the day's grazing reduces chances of bloat.

With controlled grazing the amount of damage to wet fields and new growth can be cut down. By cutting fields into small units with electric fence, cows can be kept from trampling an entire wet field.

Using old pastures first so that legumes have a chance to get started is wise. Young plants that are pastured too close recover slowly.

Much Meat to Eat

Enough beef, pork, lamb and veal will be produced this year to provide 161.5 pounds per person in the United States, according to estimates by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Seeks Proof of Tax Effect on Industry

Businessman Wants to Know if State Levies Block New Firms

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — State tax investigators have been challenged to prove or disprove with finality this state's unsavory tax reputation among business and industrial leaders of the nation.

The challenge came Friday from Edmund Fitzgerald, a Milwaukee, one of the state's best known and most successful business executives, as he addressed a subcommittee of Gov. Nelson's "blue ribbon" tax revision commission. He is the recently resigned chairman of the board of the Northwestern Mutual Insurance company, one of the biggest enterprises of its kind in the nation.

"There is no question that in the minds of the country this is a high cost state for manufacturing, and that the tax factor is a contributing factor," Fitzgerald has made clear in a study of state economic development problems. Chief Competitor Illinois is the chief and most successful competitor of Wisconsin in luring new plant locations because its "tax take from industry" is lighter, the Milwaukee business leader commented.

Edwin Larkin of Eau Claire, subcommittee chairman, indicated that the group would follow up Fitzgerald's suggestion for a definitive study of the relation of state and local taxes to Wisconsin industrial growth. Implied was the idea that if the high tax factor is proved, the legislature will be given remedial recommendations.

(Earlier a University of Wisconsin panel of economists found that the tax cost of manufacturing in Wisconsin is somewhat higher than in competitive states, but it threw some doubt on the importance of the matter as a location deterrent.) In another development Friday, Gov. Nelson told reporters at a news conference that he would prefer a generalized fiscal and tax policy plank in the 1960 state Democratic platform. While he did not comment directly on the question of a sales tax which is the basic issue involved in shifting Wisconsin tax policy, he indicated that he would try to avoid specific tax commitments.

Boy Crushed Under Tractor

16-Year-Old Dies
When Thrown Under Wheels of Vehicle

Brotherstown — John Docka, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Docka, Berton, Ill., was crushed to death under a tractor about 4:30 p.m. Friday.

He was riding on the fender of a tractor driven by William Goesser, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goesser, route 3, Chilton, on the Goesser farm when the fender broke and Docka was thrown under the wheels.

The boy died immediately of crushing injuries, County Coroner LeRoy Hughes said. Docka lived with his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wegner, route 3, Chilton.

Funeral arrangements are being made at the Pfeffer Funeral home, Chilton.

Unity of Christian Forces

Pope Create Prepare for

Vatican City — Pope John XXIII today created 11 commissions to prepare for the Roman Catholic church's first Ecumenical Council in nearly a century. He also set up a special body to keep other Christians—Protestants and orthodox — informed of the council's work.

The council, the pope said, has "quickened once more the hope that those who, though claiming the name of Christian, (and) yet are separated from this Apostolic See, may listen to the Voice of the Divine Shepherd and approach the one Church of Christ."

One of Targets
The pope first announced plans for the council 17 months ago. He indicated then that the gathering would have as one of its targets eventual unity of the world's Christian forces.

A commission under Domenico Cardinal Tardini, Vatican secretary of state, has since collected suggestions from more than 2,000 bishops and archbishops for subjects to be discussed. Pope John said: "... A secretariat has been established to deal with questions touching modern means of communicating ideas (press, radio, television, cinema, etc.) ... "Then as a token of our affection and goodwill toward those who bear the name of

Most Used Car Buyers Get Leads From Newspapers

A recent survey taken in Chicago shows that 88 percent of the used-car buyers got their leads from newspapers, that most buyers would have preferred to buy a new car if they could afford it, and that there was a considerable level of corporate loyalty.

Newspaper advertising is the dominant force in stimulating the used-car market. Used car buyers read the new car ads, develop loyalties and wait for the day they can afford to buy a new car.
